

Viet Government Corruption Rampant, Report Says

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A top U. S. civilian adviser says the United States must boldly take the initiative to root out corruption in South Vietnam's government because, he insists, there aren't enough honest Vietnamese officials to do the job.

The reports were made available to The Associated Press on the condition that the adviser, chief of a 22-man team in Vietnam, not be identified.

Saying the United States "must take the initiative in this (remedial action) and, once having started must continue it," the adviser declared: "Vietnamese officials are so involved that very few have hands sufficiently clean that they can make an immediate major independent contribution."

The U. S. adviser sent a copy of the report to his superiors in Washington, along with another complaining that he had previously proposed stern measures against graft only to encounter opposition from "hearts and minds purists" in the U. S. mission.

It is time, he said, to stop "treating corruption as a delicate, unmentionable subject." To clamp down on the situation, his report to AID recommended that the United States:

—Create an anticorruption office within the U. S. mission, invite the South Vietnamese to set up a corresponding office, and offer rewards to Vietnamese citizens for solid evidence of corruption.

—Confront the government of South Vietnam with examples of corruption as they develop and "insist that law enforcement and revenue collecting officials go to jail and be publicly disgraced for involvement in graft and corruption."

—Abandon our present devotion to the fiction that corruption is the special field of lower and middle echelon government officials. Instead place the blame squarely where it belongs —right at the top."

—Agree that "no attempt will be made to dig into past history of anyone who henceforth toes the line."

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on foreign aid expenditures, and a longtime investigator of corruption in Vietnam, told a reporter "our efforts are not effective because some of our agencies aren't concerned about corruption."

"Corruption springs at you from bottom to top and the American taxpayer is paying the bill," said Gruening, an opponent of U. S. policy in Vietnam.

The U. S. adviser, however, told AID that South Vietnamese corruption, when viewed across the board, "is appalling; it is frightening enough to make one have grave doubts that there is any possibility of ever achieving any reasonable degree of honest ty and integrity in Vietnamese officialdom."

An honestly run customs operation "conceivably could produce revenue equaling the entire AID program" less commodity imports, he said. That would be about $300 million.

In an experiment on graft curtailment, U. S. advisers moved to Tan Son Nhut airport in Saigon to work elbow-to-elbow with

Rhodesians Execute 3 Terrorists

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian government hanged three Africans today after rejecting Queen Elizabeth II's order commuting their sentences to life in prison.

A guard pinned notices on the gate of Salisbury's central prison announcing the executions of the three men convicted of murder and terrorism.

The queen, still considered head of state by Rhodesia's rebel white minority government, commuted their sentences Saturday. But the appellate division of Rhodesia's high court, ruling on two of the cases Monday, held it was "not a personal decision by her majesty but by her government (in Britain). Her majesty is quite powerless in this matter. It is a source of great regret that her majesty has become involved."

Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence from Britain in 1965, and Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle ruled it is the only government in Rhodesia with the power to exercise the prerogative of mercy.

The decision to go ahead with all three hangings was understood to have been reached at a six-hour Cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Court Studies Evidence In 3 Murders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The verdict in the case of William Dale Archerd, charged with murdering two of his seven wives and his 15-year-old nephew with insulin injections, is in the hands of a Superior Court judge three months after the nonjury trial began.

Archerd, a 55-year-old male nurse, denied the killings in testimony before Judge Adolph Alexander before both sides waived final arguments Tuesday.

Archerd was charged last summer with three murders by hard to detect insulin and accused before the Los Angeles County grand jury in three other deaths by the same method.

The first murder charged to Archerd was that of Zella Winder Archerd, 48, his fourth wife. She died at her home in Covina, east of Los Angeles on July 25, 1965, two months after their marriage.

The second, the one that spurred a full-scale investigation by sheriff's detectives, was Mary Brinker Post Arden, 60, of Chino, Calif., best-selling author and assistant publicity director for the Claremont Colleges. She, his seventh wife, died Nov. 3, 1966, at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The third was his nephew, Burney Kirk Archerd, 15, of Long Beach. He died Sept. 2, 1961 at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

The graying Archerd was not charged in the other deaths, because they occurred outside Los Angeles County.

Archerd, who worked as an attendant at several hospitals including duty in the insulin shock therapy ward at Camarillo State Hospital, pleaded innocent to all counts.

Demand Probe Of Treasury Data Leaks

Claim Dealers Got Information For Fast Profit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman has demanded a congressional inquiry into a potentially profitable tip on supposedly secret information leaked to securities dealers by a federal employee.

Patman, the Texas Democrat who heads the House Banking Committee, called a government investigation of the leak "highly incomplete" and "obviously an attempt to whitewash a highly serious situation."

The Treasury Department said Tuesday a tip by a 61-year-old employee of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia gave some securities dealers advance knowledge of terms for a $2.5 billion treasury borrowing last August.

The employee, who worked for the bank for 46 years, was suspended and later died of a heart attack, the government said.

Both the Treasury and the Federal Reserve said new procedures to prevent further leaks were worked out and have been used since Aug. 17. The tip gave the securities dealers

Rights Bill Gets Antiriot Amendments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has narrowly rejected an effort to exempt single-family homes from a civil rights-open housing bill but has crushed a liberal bid to stave off antiriot amendments.

More and tougher antiriot proposals were on tap today as the Senate continued its seven-week struggle with the civil rights measure.

By a thumbing 82-13 vote, Tuesday, the Senate attached to the bill a measure that would make it a federal crime to cross a state line with intent to incite a riot.

And over the objection of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, it adopted two other Southern-sponsored amendments related to riots and other civil disorders.

In contrast, an amendment to punch a big hole in the proposed ban on discrimination in the sale or rental of housing was barely defeated, 48 to 43.

The amendment, by Sen. Howard H. Baker, Jr., R-Tenn., would have exempted individual homeowners and thus removed from coverage an estimated 29 million single-family dwellings, or about 44 per cent of the housing market.

Steelworkers Negotiate Early

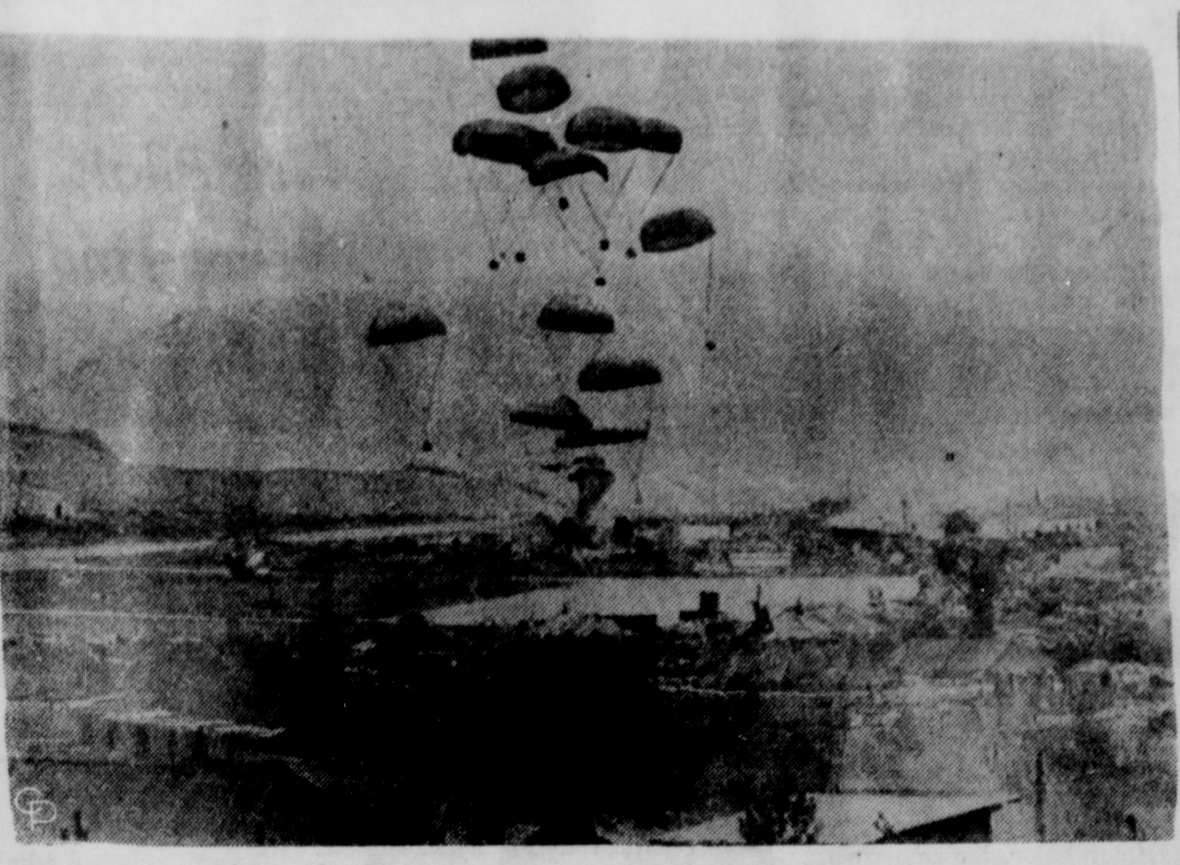

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel contract negotiations will begin talks two months ahead of schedule.

The rush to the bargaining table reportedly reflects the desire of both sides to work out a contract without government intervention.

With the intensified war in Vietnam, steelmakers and the union say they have little doubt the White House would move in to the negotiations swiftly if a strike threatened to shut down steel mills.

Goldwater, in Unity Plea, OKs Rocky, Likes Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barry Goldwater—joining in Republican pleas for unity after his near-renunciation of Nelson A. Rockefeller—has strongly indicated he could back the New York governor for president.

"I've never voted for a Democrat for president yet," Goldwater told a Republican dinner Tuesday night. "And if people want to convince me they have changed their spots, I can be convinced."

The 1964 presidential candidate had said 24 hours earlier that "conservatives want no part of Rockefeller"—and the remark prompted pleas from around the country for Republicans to unify and beat the Democrats.

Presidential hopeful Richard M. Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan immediately announced they would support Rockefeller if he became the nominee and Reagan said he hoped Goldwater would, too.

9 Killed In Blazes; Arson Eyed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Nine persons perished in two residential area fires on Houston's East Side during the night, and investigators said an arsonist may have started both blazes.

Firemen and police reported a number of bodies were charred beyond recognition.

Both fires occurred in a low income area verging on the industrial district about three miles east of downtown Houston.

As the last unit was leaving the scene of the first fire in which one man died, fire Capt. Donald Hanks spotted a glow in the sky and summoned more equipment.

Three blocks down the street the firefighters found a two-story rooming house engulfed by flames. Eight persons were dead by the time the blaze was controlled after a desperate hour's battle.

Carole Tregoff Denied Parole

FRONTERA, Calif. (AP) — Carole Tregoff has been denied parole from the prison to which she was sentenced to life for the 1959 murder of the wife of Dr. Bernard Finch.

Miss Tregoff could win her freedom in May 1969 when her case comes up again. Supt. Iverne Carter of the California Institute for Women said after Tuesday's hearing that Miss Tregoff, now 30, has a good chance at parole.

The parole hearing for Finch, convicted of first-degree murder and also sentenced to life in prison, will be next month.

Set Caravan From Findlay

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Some Hancock County citizens opposed to proposals of school consolidation plan a caravan to the state Board of Education in Columbus next Monday.

Several hundred persons, most of them apparently opposed to consolidation, have appeared at each of five meetings in the city and county where the proposals were discussed.

Kenneth Warren of the Cory-Rawson School District announced the caravan plans after the final meeting Tuesday night.

Upwards of 2,000 persons reportedly have signed petitions opposing school consolidations.

The county's Community Action Organization was awarded a $25,894 federal grant to finance a home-health services project, and $21,299 for the administration of the anti-poverty program.

Under the home service grant, health services to low-income patients in the home and hospitals will be expanded through use of a trained staff to supplement services given by the health department. The program administration grant will provide for staffing the anti-poverty agency.

49 Americans Aboard; Fate Undetermined

SAIGON (AP) — Communist gunners besieging Khe Sanh shot down a U.S. Air Force C123 transport carrying 49 men near that Marine combat base today, a 7th Air Force spokesman announced.

The fate of the men — 5 crewmen and 44 passengers — was not immediately determined.

The C123s are propeller-driven planes with two auxiliary turbojet engines. The maximum payload is 15,000 pounds. They ordinarily carry in fresh troops for Khe Sanh and fly out others for rest or reassignment.

About 75 miles north of Saigon, paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division ran into 150 Viet Cong holding a village.

The Communists opened up with automatic weapons and bazookas and pulled in about 250 reinforcements. Supported by artillery and rocket-firing helicopters, the Americans killed 56 of the enemy force, spokesmen said, while five Americans were killed and 26 wounded.

Along the coastal lowlands below Da Nang, men of the U.S. Army's American Division reported killing 64 enemy soldiers in two clashes. Artillery and air strikes accounted for many of the dead among the enemy forces, who were entrenched in concrete bunkers. Two Americans were killed and 23 wounded.

Other scattered clashes brought total American casualties for the day to 13 killed and 54 wounded, U.S. headquarters reported.

Fighting was reported continuing two miles southwest of Ca Mau, with South Vietnamese troops pursuing guerrillas they drove out of the provincial capital at the southern tip of the country.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots flew 70 missions Tuesday. Key targets included an army barracks 31 miles northeast of Haiphong and a boat yard 23 miles northeast of the port city.

In Saigon, U.S. officers said allied troops killed 52,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong from the day the lunar new year offensive began, Jan. 30, until Tuesday night.

They said 2,000 American and 4,000 South Vietnamese were killed, but they gave no figures on the number of wounded. The total of South Vietnamese troops killed, wounded and missing have been placed at 9,754.

Governor OKs Anti-Poverty Projects Here

Gov. James A. Rhodes gave his approval today to two anti-poverty program projects in Pickaway County.

The county's Community Action Organization was awarded a $25,894 federal grant to finance a home-health services project, and $21,299 for the administration of the anti-poverty program.

Under the home service grant, health services to low-income patients in the home and hospitals will be expanded through use of a trained staff to supplement services given by the health department. The program administration grant will provide for staffing the anti-poverty agency.

Survey Shows at Least 20 Millionaires in Senate

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — At least one of every five U.S. senators is considered to be a millionaire.

This is the finding of an Associated Press survey of senators and their associates, back home and in Washington.

It adds to the Senate's reputation as the country's "most exclusive club."

One senator figures the ratio of Senate millionaires is even higher than one out of five.

In a private conversation he estimated that 30 of his colleagues—or almost one third of the 100 senators—were worth a million dollars or close to it.

It is impossible to draw a detailed picture of senatorial assets or financial dealings.

Most politicians avoid publicizing their wealth and the sources of it.

Despite annual demands—and the inevitable drives after such scandals as the Thomas Dodd case—the Senate, as well as the House, has refused to pass a law requiring members to disclose financial holdings, dealings and worth.

In some cases a senator widely believed in his home state to be a millionaire denies that he is.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Democratic whip and chairman of the Finance Committee, is believed to be a millionaire by the homefolk. They point to land holdings, oil stock and a Baton Rouge law firm.

Asked about this, Long replied ambiguously:

"I have never actually submitted a statement of worth that showed $1 million."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, senior Republican on the Banking and Currency Committee and former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has been ranked as a millionaire. He owns a firm that manufactures paint and distributes glass and also has an auto dealership. But he says reports that he is a millionaire are in error.

Among the acknowledged millionaires: The brothers Kennedy—Robert F. of New York and Edward M. of Massachusetts. Their father Joseph Kennedy's fortune was estimated at $300 million in 1963. One half was reported to be in trust funds for the Kennedy children and grandchildren.

Both Maryland senators—democrats Daniel B. Brewster and Joseph D. Tydings—are of wealthy families. Tydings says he does not consider himself a millionaire, yet, Brewster acknowledges he is.

Illinois Republican Charles H. Percy's fortune is estimated at $5 million or more. Percy, elected to the Senate in 1966, started as a stock boy in Bell & Howell and left as board chairman.

Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., says his fortune was inherited and supplemented through investments.

He is a limited partner in the brokerage firm of Auchincloss, Parker and Redpath.

Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., estimated his wealth at "in the neighborhood of a million dollars," all in land and buildings.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., a former assistant secretary of state and GOP national chairman during the Eisenhower administration, acknowledges he is a millionaire.

In 1966 Morton said he had $1,170,000 in Pillsbury Mills stock and that he and his wife (Continued on Page 2)

A letter protesting the vacating of a portion of an alley behind The Herald was read with the signatures of eight residents of the area attached. However, none of the signatures were of property owners who would be affected by the proposal. The matter is being studied by the Safety Committee.

John Jenkins, chairman of the Safety Committee, told councilmen that his committee had a lengthy and very worthwhile session last week.

He said that a "crackdown" would be forthcoming on motorists who insist on parking in alleys. A survey is to be conducted by Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe and certain alleys will be designated as "fire lanes" and "no parking" signs would be erected. Violators will be prosecuted, Safety Director Robert Adkins concurred.

Jenkins also noted that discussions were held concerning several traffic lights within the city as well as crosswalk areas. Lights for the crosswalk areas on both east and west Main Street were approved and referred to the Finance Committee for final action.

It was also pointed out that action is being initiated again to combine the city and county health departments.

Paul Roan, health commissioner, said that he was in favor of a combined department and that there would be definite advantages i.e. more state grants.

COUNCIL BRIEFS
Safety Director Bob Adkins commented that his dealings with the Safety Committee and other officials had been "very satisfactory" to date. He also commented the city should "be proud of its fire department, police department and their chiefs."

The east-west alley (between Mound and Franklin Sts.) has been designated for one way traffic only from Pickaway to Court St., Adkins reported.

Police Chief Robert Temple told council that arrangements were being made with the State Highway Patrol for an official photographer. The patrolman is to use city equipment in taking photos for the department.

Fire Chief Wolfe informed council he expected another resignation from his staff this month which would make his department "two men short."

CHIEF Wolfe also said that an investigation was underway as to the legality of razing several abandoned buildings within the city which have been labeled "health and safety hazards."

And such was city council's meeting Tuesday night. All business was completed in about 90 minutes, due largely to the extensive committee meetings held between the twice-monthly council sessions.

about one hour's advance notice. "I am not convinced this leak is the only one that has occurred," Patman said in a statement.

He urged that the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, be empowered to probe the whole matter, with access to the Federal Reserve as well as the Treasury.

At present, the autonomous Federal Reserve system is outside GAO jurisdiction. The Treasury said its month-long investigation turned up no evidence that any substantial profits or losses were incurred because of the advance information. The Federal Reserve said the now dead employee got nothing.

Identity of the employee was withheld by the Treasury "to spare his family additional pain and embarrassment."

The Justice Department is looking into activities of persons who received the tip to determine if any federal law was violated. The Securities and Exchange Commission is also reportedly involved in this follow-up action.

In a Senate speech last Aug. 25, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said there were strong indications inside speculators took advantage of an advance leak in the financing. He also charged there was a premature leak of information on a change in silver policy on May 18, a charge the Treasury denied Tuesday in the same 18-page report.

Light Rain In Picture

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Light rain dampened the Midwest, Pacific Northwest and most of Texas and Louisiana today as generally mild weather continued in most sections of the country.

Cloudiness was widespread, giving way to clear skies only in the Southwest, the northern half of the Plains and widely separated portions of the East. Slightly cooler temperatures in the Midwest turned rain to snow during the night. But accumulations generally were not significant.

Coldest conditions again were restricted to the northeastern tip of the country, ranging down to 6 below zero at Houston, Maine.

The film is a love story, a laugh story and a life-sized look at the ups and downs of the faith of a twentieth-century man.

The motion picture has a mixture of upcoming young talent and well-known character players. Robert Sampson, who portrays Pete Harper in the film, also starred in "The Restless One." Tickets can be obtained at the "For Pete's Sake!" Film Premiere Office, 137 E. Main St. or Phone 474-2217.

Red China 'Uncovers' Spy Ring

TOKYO (AP) — Supporters of Mao Tse-tung have reported the existence of a Japanese spy network in Red China which, they say, has operated since the end of World War II with roots in the Communist party, army, government and Cultural Organizations.

Some of its members, the Maoists charged, reached high positions in Mao's cultural revolution.

Liu Jen, purged secretary of the Secretariat of the Communist North China Bureau, was termed the mastermind of the network.

The spy ring was reported in the December Canton Chien-hsin, a translation of which was seen in Tokyo today.

It said Liu, 59, began recruiting Chinese to work for Japan at the war's end and their mission was to bring about a Japanese reoccupation of China by 1965.

Rep. H. K. Ankeny Of Xenia Dies

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Republican State Rep. Herman K. Ankeny of Greene County's 10th District died in Holmes Hospital in Cincinnati early Wednesday after a long illness. He was 72.

Ankeny was chairman of the House Agriculture and Conservation Committee, and had served continuously in the Ohio House since 1953.

He was in a wheel chair in the legislature to vote on the recent congressional redistricting bill last Jan. 26, Statehouse observers said.

Fire Pilot; Never Had Right License

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmie H. Lane piloted planes for Eastern Air Lines for 11 years, including the big Constellations on the Washington-New York shuttle.

"He had a good clean record with us," an Eastern spokesman said Tuesday—never even a minor accident. The spokesman described Lane as a "quiet, friendly man" who was a Marine aviator before joining Eastern.

But Lane has been fired. The Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday that Lane never had more than a private pilot's license, which it said a person of average ability can earn by flying about 40 hours.

Airline captains are required to have an "airline transport rating," awarded after a minimum of 1,200 hours flying time, including 75 hours in which only aircraft instruments are used.

The FAA said Lane lacked an instrument rating and could never have met this requirement.

But the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., flyer did pass Eastern's tests, graduated from its pilot training schools and after being checked out of the FAA moved on to piloting bigger, faster planes.

His downfall, the FAA said, came when he took a test Feb. 26 to go from jet-props to jets.

Police Keep Omaha Quiet

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Omaha's predominantly Negro Near North Side was quiet today, and police hoped the flashpoint for renewed racial disturbances had passed.

Beefed up police patrols kept watch over the troubled neighborhood after an outbreak of some looting and vandalism and the fatal shooting of a 16-year-old negro boy, who officers said attempted to break into a pawnshop.

The officers were aided by 60 volunteer peacemakers, who patrolled the area. They stopped to talk when they spotted groups of young people congregating.

Police confiscated four fire bombs early Wednesday from six negro men they said were trying to dump the bombs out of a car. The six were booked on suspicion of disorderly conduct with bail set at $100 each.

He said Ohio would gain at least $40 million in contracts, the figure of business negotiated after a similar Ohio Trade Fair in Japan last year.

Salt Mine Workers Are Trapped

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Twenty-one salt miners were trapped 1,200 feet underground early today after fire damaged a hoist in a mine on the Louisiana coast, a spokesman at the Cargill Salt Mines here said today.

"We don't know how much danger they are in," said a woman at the company's switchboard. "We do not have any communication with them."

The men were trapped in a salt dome under Belle Isle, some 14 miles south of here on the southeast Louisiana coast.

The fire department at Morgan City rushed a rescue team to the mine after the company reported that fire broke out at midnight, trapping the men.

"We believe that the fire is out now," the company spokesman said. "We did have a fire which damaged a hoist, and that's why we can't get the men out."

Tanker Towing Attempt Fails

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A cable to the main towing vessel parted during the night forcing delays in attempts to move the oil-spewing tanker Ocean Eagle from the mouth of San Juan harbor.

The tow ship was the U.S.S. Preserver, a Navy salvage vessel.

A Navy spokesman said the six towing vessels readied another try.

The eagle, national bird of the United States, has long been used as an emblem of courage and power. It symbolized the Sumerian city of Lagash in the third millennium before Christ.

Fear All 63 Dead In Crash of Jet On La Soufriere

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — Rescue crews reached the wreckage of an Air France 707 Boeing jet today and reported that all 63 persons on board, including a woman identified as the wife of real estate man William Zeckendorf, died when the plane hit a mountain-side Tuesday night.

Cutting through dense terrain, searchers found parts of the plane on Matouba Mountain on the western half of this two-island French West Indies territory. The mountain is about 700 feet high and alongside La Soufriere, a dormant volcano frequently visited by tourists.

The plane ploughed into it as it headed for a landing at Pointe-A-Pitre's Raizet Airport, about 30 miles away. Witnesses said the jet burst into flames and exploded.

En route from Santiago, Chile to Paris, the plane "just disappeared from the radar screen" while making its landing approach, Luis Guillermo Medina, an airport administration official said.

The plane had left Caracas, Venezuela, at 8:27 p.m. after stops in Lima, Peru, and Quito, Ecuador, and was due in Guadeloupe, Air France's main servicing area in the Caribbean, about 55 minutes later.

Officials said the weather was good at the time of the crash and that they had received no emergency messages from the pilot.

In New York, Miss Marjorie Campbell, Zeckendorf's secretary, said Mr. and Mrs. Zeckendorf were to have met in Guadeloupe Tuesday night and then sailed on the SS France for a Caribbean vacation cruise. Mrs. Zeckendorf had boarded the plane in Lima.

Air France also listed among the passengers a "Joseph Rosenbluth, presumed to be American." A man who said he was his nephew said in Philadelphia that Rosenbluth was a real estate agent in Philadelphia.

Two newsmen from the French magazine Paris Match were on board, returning from an assignment in South America. They were reporter photographer Tony Saulnier, 42, and reporter Hubert Herzog, 43, a brother of Maurice Herzog, the mountain climber and former minister for youth and sports in the French government.

Another journalist, the Rev. Emile Gabel, 55, former chief editor of the Paris Roman Catholic newspaper La Croix, and since 1957 secretary-general of the National Catholic Union of the Press, was also a passenger. The plane's manifest also listed nationals from Peru, South

Negroes Win Runoff Berths

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Three Negro candidates have won places in Democratic primary runoff elections for seats on the Selma City Council.

But the apparent solidarity of Negro voters, who are outnumbered in Selma, was unable to win a runoff berth for the Rev. L.L. Anderson in Tuesday's party primary race for mayor.

Mayor Joe Smitherman, 38, a white businessman who took office five just four months before Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. launched the 1965 Negro voting rights drive here, won re-election with 5,969 votes. Anderson, a Baptist minister active in civil rights work, had 2,950, while John Day, a white chiropractor, got 81.

Negroes still in the running for city council seats are Edwin Hill Moss, a 51-year-old clerical worker for the Catholic Fathers of St. Edmund; Marius J. Anderson, a radio and television announcer, and the Rev. Lorenzo Harrison. Each was in a race with several white opponents.

A letter protesting the vacating of a portion of an alley behind The Herald was read with the signatures of eight residents of the area attached. However, none of the signatures were of property owners who would be affected by the proposal. The matter is being studied by the Safety Committee.

John Jenkins, chairman of the Safety Committee, told councilmen that his committee had a lengthy and very worthwhile session last week.

He said that a "crackdown" would be forthcoming on motorists who insist on parking in alleys. A survey is to be conducted by Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe and certain alleys will be designated as "fire lanes" and "no parking" signs would be erected. Violators will be prosecuted, Safety Director Robert Adkins concurred.

Jenkins also noted that discussions were held concerning several traffic lights within the city as well as crosswalk areas. Lights for the crosswalk areas on both east and west Main Street were approved and referred to the Finance Committee for final action.

The Justice Department is looking into activities of persons who received the tip to determine if any federal law was violated. The Securities and Exchange Commission is also reportedly involved in this follow-up action.

In a Senate speech last Aug. 25, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said there were strong indications inside speculators took advantage of an advance leak on the financing. He also charged there was a premature leak of information on a change in silver policy on May 18, a charge the Treasury denied Tuesday in the same 18-page report.

Light Rain In Picture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Light rain dampened the Midwest, Pacific Northwest and most of Texas and Louisiana today as generally mild weather continued in most sections of the country.

Cloudiness was widespread, giving way to clear skies only in the Southwest, the northern half of the Plains and widely separated portions of the East. Slightly cooler temperatures in the Midwest turned rain to snow during the night. But accumulations generally were not significant.

Coldest conditions again were restricted to the northeastern tip of the country, ranging down to 6 below zero at Houston, Maine.

The motion picture has a mixture of upcoming young talent and well-known character players. Robert Sampson, who portrays Pete Harper in the film, also starred in "The Restless One". Tickets can be obtained at the "For Pete's Sake!" Film Premiere Office, 137 E. Main St. or Phone 474-2217.

McCarthy Shows Gains In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's peace candidacy claimed control of party machinery in at least three congressional districts today after heavy turnouts for Democratic precinct caucuses.

It shaped up as a major victory for McCarthy backers in what amounted to a grass-roots test on Vietnam policy in more than 3,000 precincts of McCarthy's home state Tuesday night.

If the claims hold up, McCarthy will net at least 15 seats on the 62-member delegation Minnesota sends to the Democratic national convention.

The Johnson-Humphrey forces clearly will control the Minnesota delegation, but the outpouring of McCarthy support obviously hurt.

Party regulars had predicted only six delegates for McCarthy, at most.

McCarthy, 51, is opposing President Johnson in a half-dozen state primaries, starting with New Hampshire next Tuesday. He has made the Vietnam war his primary issue.

Plan To Send Blaiberg Home
NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Christian Barnard says he plans to discharge Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's only living heart transplant recipient from the hospital when he returns to South Africa next week.

And when Dr. Barnard is sent home, Dr. Barnard says, he plans to perform a third heart transplant "soon—pretty soon."

Grant Announced
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Health has received approval of a $71,113 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service for a research project on the incidence of California encephalitis in Ohio.

'Human Renewal' Urged by GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight House Republicans called today for cutting $6.5 billion from the administration's budget and plowing $2.5 billion of it into what they called a human renewal fund.

The fund would finance beefed-up programs for job training and vocational education, housing, fighting crime and water and air pollution.

The Republicans called for cuts in U.S. troop deployments in Europe, development of a superperson transport, the space program, public works, nonmilitary research, highway beautification and farm subsidies.

The statement was issued in advance of a news conference.

The GOP group said creation of a human renewal fund is needed immediately "to meet urgent human needs and the urban crisis in our nation."

Sponsoring the plan were Reps. Charles E. Goodell, N.Y.; W. E. Brock, Tenn.; Albert H. Quie, Minn.; Howard W. Robinson, N.Y.; Donald Rumsfeld, Ill.; William O. Cowger, Ky.; George Bush, Texas, and William A. Steiger, Wis.

Fire Pilot; Never Had Right License

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmie H. Lane piloted planes for Eastern Air Lines for 11 years, including the big Constellations on the Washington-New York shuttle.

"He had a good clean record with us," an Eastern spokesman said Tuesday—never even a minor accident. The spokesman described Lane as a "quiet, friendly man" who was a Marine aviator before joining Eastern.

But Lane has been fired.

The Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday that Lane never had more than a private pilot's license, which it said a person of average ability can earn by flying about 40 hours. Airline captains are required to have an "airline transport rating," awarded after a minimum of 1,200 hours flying time, including 75 hours in which only aircraft instruments are used.

The FAA said Lane lacked an instrument rating and could never have met this requirement.

But the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., flyer did pass Eastern's tests, graduated from its pilot training schools and after being checked out of the FAA moved on to piloting bigger, faster planes.

His downfall, the FAA said, came when he took a test Feb. 26 to go from jet-props to jets.

Police Keep Omaha Quiet

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Omaha's predominantly Negro North Side was quiet today, and police hoped the flashpoint for renewed racial disturbances had passed.

Beefed up police patrols kept watch over the troubled neighborhood after an outbreak of some looting and vandalism and the fatal shooting of a 16-year-old Negro boy, who officers said attempted to break into a pawnshop.

The officers were aided by 60 volunteer peacemakers, who patrolled the area. They stopped to talk when they spotted groups of young people congregating.

Police confiscated four fire bombs early Wednesday from six Negro men they said were trying to dump the bombs out of a car. The six were booked on suspicion of disorderly conduct with bail set at $109 each.

Ohio Trade Fair In Japan Success

TOKYO (AP) — Businessmen from Ohio began leaving today for other Asian countries while a 10-day Ohio Trade Fair prepared to close in Tokyo Thursday.

Fred P. Neuenchwander, director of Ohio's Department of Development, described the fair as "very, very successful." He said Ohio would gain at least $40 million in contracts, the figure of business negotiated after a similar Ohio Trade Fair in Japan last year.

Most of the proposals urged by the Republicans call for increasing appropriations for existing programs. In the field of job training, however, they urged enactment of a GOP-sponsored human investment act that would enlarge the role of private industry in job training.

Stock List Up Sharply

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was substantially higher early this afternoon as a vigorous technical rally expanded gains.

Trading was active, about on a par with Tuesday's 11-million-share session.

Gains outnumbered losses by well over 4 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 7.40 at 834.43.

Analysts saw it as mainly a technical rally, since there was no special news to change Wall Street's basic psychology.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.0 at 303.1 with industrials up 3.2, rails up 1.4 and utilities up .5.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

James Williams, 21, Mt. Sterling, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 60 miles in a 50 mile zone.

Mary Jane Conrad, 46, of 273 Stella Avenue, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $110 in fines and bond forfeitures from five out-of-county motorists.

Hawaii Republican Hiram Fong issued a financial statement prior to his 1964 re-election which estimated his net worth at $2 million. Fong is president of Finance Factors, Ltd., an industrial loan firm, and is a founder of the law firm Fong, Miho, Choy and Robinson.

Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., is a member of the family which owns the Wall Street brokerage firm of Dominick & Dominick.

Virginia Democrat Harry F. Byrd Jr. has holdings which include controlling interest in two daily newspapers and one weekly in Virginia and interests in large apple growing, packing and processing operations as well as other businesses.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., is considered a self-made millionaire. According to local sources and Who's Who, Jordan is general manager, secretary treasurer and director of Sellers Manufacturing Co., a cotton mill; secretary treasurer and director of the Jordan Spinning Co.; president, treasurer, general manager and director of Royal Cotton Mill Co., and director of various other firms including the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of Winston-Salem.

Both Missouri senators—Democrats Edward V. Long and Stuart Symington—are reputed to be millionaires. Symington inherited money and added to it by rehabilitating Emerson Electric Co. of St. Louis during World War II. In addition to being a lawyer, Long is in farming and the small loan, banking and insurance business.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., chairman of the Senate Aeronautical and Space committee, owns an insurance business. An aide said the senator is a millionaire.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., had been in the millionaire class, according to his own statements of worth, until his divorce last year. He and his former wife's joint assets had been listed at slightly above one million. In the Congressional record of Dec. 18, Clark estimated his worth at $806,231.

Georgia associates of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., think it very likely that Talmadge is a millionaire, partly from the value of large tracts of land. Mrs. Talmadge also had built what is described as a profitable business selling country hams and sausage. But aides said Talmadge was not quite a millionaire.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., is a wealthy planter and also a lawyer. He is said to have large land holdings in the Mississippi Delta where he lives. An aide said he didn't know whether Eastland was a millionaire.

Salt Mine Workers Are Trapped

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Twenty-one salt miners were trapped 1,200 feet underground early today after fire damaged a hoist in a mine on the Louisiana coast, a spokesman at the Cargill Salt Mines here said today.

"We don't know how much danger they are in," said a spokesman at the company's switchboard. "We do not have any communication with them."

The men were trapped in a salt dome under Belle Isle, some 14 miles south of here on the southeast Louisiana coast.

The fire department at Morgan City rushed a rescue team to the mine after the company reported that fire broke out at midnight, trapping the men.

"We believe that the fire is out now," the company spokesman said. "We did have a fire which damaged a hoist, and that's why we can't get the men out."

Urge Seaway Advertisements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Midwestern states should begin pressing for a St. Lawrence Seaway that is open the year-round and advertised world-wide, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D - Mich., said today.

Speaking at a Washington breakfast meeting of Great Lakes port and shipping officials, Hart said Congress has now appropriated $75,000 for a study on how to keep the lake harbors ice-free for more months of the year.

Painting Stolen At Cincy Museum

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Art Museum experienced its first theft in the last 15 years Tuesday as the print of a 18th Century painting was lifted from its frame and stolen. Cincinnati police and FBI agents were searching today for clues into the theft of the Albrecht Durer print, "St. Jerome low," valued at $35,000.

The museum acquired in 1943 the print of the painting made by Durer in 1512.

Fear All 63 Dead In Crash of Jet On La Soufriere

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — Rescue crews reached the wreckage of an Air France 707 Boeing jet today and reported that all 63 persons on board, including a woman identified as the wife of real estate man William Zeckendorf, died when the plane hit a mountain-side Tuesday night.

Cutting through dense terrain, searchers found parts of the plane on Matouba Mountain on the western half of this two-island French West Indies territory. The mountain is about 700 feet high and alongside La Soufriere, a dormant volcano frequently visited by tourists.

The plane ploughed into it as it headed for a landing at Pointe-A-Pitre's Raizet Airport, about 30 miles away. Witnesses said the jet burst into flames and exploded.

En route from Santiago, Chile to Paris, the plane "just disappeared from the radar screen" while making its landing approach, Luis Guillermo Medina, an airport administration official said.

The plane had left Caracas, Venezuela, at 6:27 p.m. after stops in Lima, Peru, and Quito, Ecuador, and was due in Guadeloupe, Air France's main servicing area in the Caribbean, about 55 minutes later.

Officials said the weather was good at the time of the crash and that they had received no emergency messages from the pilot.

In New York, Miss Marjorie Campbell, Zeckendorf's secretary, said Mr. and Mrs. Zeckendorf were to have met in Guadeloupe Tuesday night and then sailed on the SS France for a Caribbean vacation cruise. Mrs. Zeckendorf had boarded the plane in Lima.

Air France also listed among the passengers a "Joseph Rosenbluth, presumed to be American." A man who said he was his nephew said in Philadelphia that Rosenbluth was a real estate agent in Philadelphia.

Two newsmen from the French magazine Paris Match were on board, returning from an assignment in South America. They were reporter-photographer Tony Saulnier, 42, and reporter Hubert Herzog, 43, a brother of Maurice Herzog, the mountain climber and former minister for youth and sports in the French government.

Another journalist, the Rev. Emile Gabel, 55, former chief editor of the Paris Roman Catholic newspaper La Croix, and since 1957 secretary-general of the National Catholic Union of the Press, was also a passenger.

The plane's manifest also listed nationals from Peru, South

Saga of Advertising

Advertising is universally recognized as a vital vertebrae in the backbone of the American economic system. Advertising is as indispensable to modern business as the telephone, the electric light or the cash register.

Large department stores use page after page of advertising space in daily newspapers, and it is one of the best investments they make. The evolution of advertising has been steady and dramatic, and this is a trend which is continuing.

Seventy-five years ago, newspaper advertisements consisted mainly of small announcements, often headed by the word "Notice!" The wording of many of them was not changed for years. It was patent medicine manufacturers who first saw large possibilities in newspaper advertisements and at one time some of these firms spent more money on national advertising than any other manufacturers.

Local advertising, as always, continues to be the backbone of newspaper advertising lineage. But national advertisers spend hundreds of millions of dollars for space, with automobile manufacturers, electric appliance makers and marketers of beauty aids large users of newspaper space.

Never were newspaper ads so interesting or so large and numerous. It is a real pleasure to read them.

The Creative Society

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

SACRAMENTO, Calif. —

When Governor Ronald Reagan points to the swelling buds of the early California spring and says he doesn't want to go to Washington, D. C., as Vice President, you can believe him. But it isn't the prospect of losing the California spring, it's the possible taunt of insincerity, if Reagan were to take second place on a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket, that bothers members of the Governor's staff. They have been burned a bit by the negative reaction of conservatives to Reagan's recent choice of Casper Weinberger, a Republican liberal, to the post of State Finance Director. "If conservatives have trouble taking a Weinberger," says one of Reagan's men, "What would they do if the Governor were to be part of a Rockefeller deal?"

You come into a much different political climate when you move south from the Oregon State capital of Salem to Sacramento. In Oregon, where they really talk up the Rockefeller-Reagan idea, they point to the "action-oriented" similarities between Rockefeller's handling of New York State's problems and Reagan's activities in California. Both governors, they point out, are creative rather than negative, and they believe in tapping the best minds. Rockefeller brings in business men such as the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, Gustave Levy, and the Ford Motor Company's Arjay Miller to advise him on what to do about welfare; Reagan puts the bee on big corporations to lend him the services of 250 business executives to make a study of state operations. (The Reagan task force has just come up with 1,800 suggested changes, 137 of which were made scarcely before the ink was dry on the report.)

For all their pragmatic similarities, however, the fiscal approaches of the two governors are entirely different. Rocky doesn't mind big bond issues to pay for his projects; Reagan though he had to accept a billion in new taxes last year, which makes the California $5.7 billion budget bigger than New York's proposed $5.5 billion, tries to carve out departmental savings, not to hand them back to the taxpayers but to pay for increased government services. It's tough to do this when the cost of such things as Medi-Cal, the local federal-state Medicaid program, can balloon without warning, but Reagan still gives it the old Eureka College try.

Students of the art of creation have stressed something called bringing two things together which no one has ever thought of relating to each other before. This is Reagan's forte. Before he came to Sacramento, the people of the Department of Public Works (which includes supervision of highway construction) hardly knew the people in the Department of Water Resources. But, since the two departments both have a common interest in moving earth, Reagan insisted that they synchronize their activities. The state is currently digging a new canal for irrigation purposes down the west side of the great California Central Valley. In the old days the Department of Water Resources would have dumped its excavated earth anywhere it could find a few useless holes. But the Reagan way is to put a single administrator over the canal digging project and a freeway construction project. The fill from the canal site goes directly to help in new highway construction, at a saving to the State of $5,500,000.

One of the things that Reagan bubbles about in the buoyant fashion that never deserts him is the art of turning old red tape into solid government investment. California highways are financed by a gas tax, and the money collected must be spent. There is a temptation to be sloppy about the spending of money that comes in anyway. By using rigorous controls, the Reagan administration managed to save $110 million on highway construction department expenses, all of which has gone into shoving California road building projects ahead by a full year. It's red tape into roads, says Reagan.

Then there was the business of sending out motor vehicle department renewals before January 1, before the six-cent federal postage stamp became mandatory. The state saved $110,000 by getting mailings out early.

So this is the Creative Society, close up. It's just another case of more bang for the buck. The Rockefeller way, say the Reaganites, differs from the Reagan Creative Society way by using more taxpayer and bond purchaser bucks for more bang. If this assessment is fair, there is a salient difference between the pragmatist of Albany, New York, and the pragmatist of Sacramento, California, even though both are spending lots of money.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Box" is an Academy Award nominee that cost $1,300 and was produced entirely through the efforts of one man.

No, the august Academy hasn't instituted an award for home movies. "The Box" has been nominated in the category of short subjects—cartoons, and it is the work of bearded Fred Wolf, at 35 a 17-year veteran of the animation business. "The Box" is a cartoon, but it is as far removed from Woody Woodpecker as Modigliani is from Norman Rockwell. Drawn in stark, imaginative style, it shows a frizzled character entering a bar. He orders a drink and places before him a box, which evokes the curiosity of other drinkers. The character keeps the contents of the box secret, but it appears to contain a small creature. A girl enters the bar and she has the same kind of box with the same kind of creature. The two box-owners happily exit from the bar, arm-in-arm.

What's in the box? "I don't really know," says Wolf. "But I'm amused by the number of people who claim to know. Everyone has a different impression of what it all means." Wolf isn't saying. He figures it's better for "Box" watchers to inject their own hypotheses, and that indicates how far animation has come from the explicitness of Donald Duck and Bugs Bunny. The latter cartoons were assembled by small armies of animators, assistant animators, gag men, inkers and painters, studio musicians, etc.

"The Box," every frame of it, was drawn by Fred Wolf. "Well, I did get a little help," he confessed. "An 11-year-old boy, my son, painted some color in a few of the pictures." The musical score was provided by one musician, drummer Shelley Manne.

Significantly, Fred Wolf never worked at the Disney studio. Together with his partner, Jimmy Murakami, Wolf represents a new generation of animators who are not beholden to the anything-for-a-gag tradition of movie cartoons. The new, impressionistic style has flourished in Europe, but the two partners have been showing the foreigners some tricks. Murakami's "Breath," for example, helped us at the recent animated film festival in France, and "The Box" took the critics' award.

Wolf provided some insight on the economics of the animation business: "The real money is in television commercials, which can bring us upwards of $30,000 apiece. But we use pictures like 'Breath' and 'The Box' to show advertisers what we can do. 'Breath,' for example, helped us get a Lavis commercial. "Otherwise it's difficult to get your money back from a theatrical release, even though 'The Box' cost under $1,300. The rental for an animated film is something like $15 a week, and even at that price theater owners don't want them. They'd rather just run the feature.

"If they do buy a short, it's usually the 'Looney Tune' kind of thing. Our pictures usually play the art houses, where you get a more discriminating audience. But I'm hopeful that we can break out of the art houses. There's no reason why 'The Box' can't play on a bill with 'The Graduate' or 'Bonnie and Clyde,' which attract the younger, thinking audience."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How can one tell if a child has an ordinary stomach ache or if it is an attack of appendicitis?

I have long ago decided that mothers and grandmothers are the greatest medical diagnosticians in the community. When a mother puts her lips to her child's forehead she says with the definiteness of authority, "He has no fever." When a Doctor walks into a patient's room and the grandmother says, "Doctor it's measles" the doctor can turn right around and go home because you can be sure it is measles.

Their diagnostic ability does not extend to the difficult problem of appendicitis. Even physicians and surgeons who deal with this problem every day will admit that the diagnosis of inflammation of the appendix is a most difficult one. It requires expert judgment and experience, in addition to blood studies and a careful history of the onset.

Pain in the abdomen, especially on the right side, associated with fever, nausea and vomiting, must not be considered as an ordinary stomach ache. Guesswork may turn out to be correct, but it is entirely unsafe for any mother to take this responsibility.

The first impulse of many people is to give their child a laxative or an enema when they complain of discomfort, especially if the child has not had a bowel movement that day. This is unwise, unsafe and dangerous.

It is always safer to consider pains in the abdomen as being meaningful rather than a passing discomfort. A telephone call to your physician will relieve you of responsibility and allow him to make the decision about the need for further examination.

Is an osteopath the same as a chiropractor?

They are distinctly different and must definitely be separated because of their differences of training and accomplishments.

The osteopath is a graduate of a school of medicine known as osteopathy. Intensive training in this specialized school is based on the idea that the structure of the body and its bony framework are responsible for its health and disease. Manipulative correction is one of the important forms of treatment in osteopathy.

In addition, drugs and surgery play an important role in hospitals that devote themselves to this type of medicine. The formal training is arduous and many osteopathic physicians have respected positions in hospitals and communities all over the country.

The chiropractor is not a physician but rather one who, unfortunately, does not have a long and intensive period of study about bodily diseases. They devote themselves entirely to manipulative treatment of the bones of the body, especially the spinal cord. They believe that the nerves coming from the spinal cord are responsible for many pains, illnesses and diseases near and far removed from the spinal canal.

I have known a number of excellent chiropractors who are perfectly brilliant in their methods of massage and manipulation. My respect for them is based on the fact that they are modest about their knowledge and do not pretend that corrective manipulation can cure all diseases of the heart, lungs, liver, brain and intestines.

All physicians know their limitations and do not feel that they must know everything about everything. This allows them to call for consultations when a difficult problem arises.

The chiropractor must know his limitations to practice his nonmedical art in safety.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal, now seven months old, has remained virtually motionless since its unveiling last Aug. 3. But it's still very much alive.

There are fresh signs the tax hike will win new attention in the coming weeks, especially in view of the current reappraisal of U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

It costs as much as $40,000 to send a man to Vietnam and maintain him there for a year. So any troop escalation of 50,000 to 100,000 men could cost as much as $2 billion to $4 billion.

Administration officials have never abandoned hope for the surcharge even when it was shelved temporarily for the third time by the House Ways and Means Committee earlier this year.

And some officials appear more hopeful than at any time since last fall that the surcharge will become law before long.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, one of the architects of the surcharge, is expected to make a new appeal for the tax when he testifies Wednesday before the Senate Finance Committee.

Although the committee is primarily considering a House-passed bill to prevent the auto and telephone excise tax rates from dropping on April 1, it will be Fowler's first chance this year to appeal for the surcharge in a formal meeting with the Senate group.

An optimist when it comes to the surcharge's chances in Congress, Fowler pointed out in a recent interview that it took more than a year to win final approval of the last two tax cuts.

There are reports that any escalation of troop strength in Vietnam might prompt the administration to propose a surcharge even higher than 10 per cent.

Some of Fowler's optimism probably springs from a statement by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who last week said a substantial acceleration of the Vietnam war could force Congress to enact higher taxes.

Mills cautioned that cutbacks elsewhere in the federal budget would also be essential.

When Johnson last January submitted his $185.1 billion budget to Congress for the net fiscal year he asked for the surcharge to take effect April 1 for individuals and retroactive to Jan. 1 for corporations.

This timetable now appears out of the question since not even the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee has acted on the proposal, much less the House itself and the Senate.

But an attempt is expected in the Senate to tack a surcharge to the excise tax bill.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican Finance Committee member, intends to force a vote on the surcharge in both the committee and on the Senate floor. He would couple it with strict limits on federal spending, hiring and construction.

There are some rumblings within the administration that the major arguments for the surcharge should have been pegged to the war and to reducing the deficit, rather than placing great emphasis on economic factors.

But government officials say some of the very economic consequences the surcharge was designed to prevent are now hitting the nation—increased inflation and surging imports which have deteriorated the country's trade balance and hurt the balance of payments.

NEW YORK (AP) — The following railroad facts can bear repeating:

— For years the railroads have publicized the idea that passengers have deserted the rails and that passenger trains therefore must be dropped. Many have been dropped.

— For as many years the railroads have maintained that only by merging into larger units could some of their members survive in the midst of competitive, and sometimes subsidized, methods of moving goods. These mergers have been made.

— Railroads in recent months have been saying they must have higher prices for the goods they move. After obtaining a 3 per cent increase last fall they are expected to seek another increase this month, perhaps this week.

Many critics are of the opinion, of course, that the dropping of passenger trains, the merging of lines and the rate increases are related, and not just chronologically. This may or may not be so.

However, the sequence of these factors, real or imagined, is causing some renewed concern and criticism among interested parties as to whether the federal government, regulator of the rails, has been:

— Overwhelmed by an outpouring of evidence, testimony and plain propaganda into viewing the immediate profit-plight of the rails as more important than the long-range requirements of society.

— Conned into believing that a reduction of competition would lead to the greatest efficiency and the lowest prices in transporting goods.

— Lax in its concern for the traveling public by agreeing with the railroads that customers just don't want to use the rails — although millions of people obviously would use them if they were modernized.

The railroads' argument for rate increases generally is that they are caught in a profit squeeze. It is an old argument and often has merit. The present claim, for example, is that wages have risen and so prices must. This can be defended, especially in period of inflation.

In the past the lines have argued that profits were damaged by growing competition from jet airplanes, superhighways and inland waterways, all of which benefit to some degree from federal funds. These arguments were generally considered to be justified.

Federal research, in fact, may have worsened the condition by concentrating on rivers, roads and air space and doing little with the rails.

And there was costly featherbedding.

In more instances than management cares to admit, however, the responses to these challenges were regressive. They raised rates while permitting service to deteriorate, thus assuring decay. Ancient equipment and ideas were applied to formidable modern problems.

The more aggressive, innovative modern management tactics and technology were not applied until considerable decay had set in, much of which is the present cause of troubles, even though the growth of the nation's economy seemed to assure the railroads of growing business.

Saga of Advertising

Advertising is universally recognized as a vital vertebrae in the backbone of the American economic system. Advertising is as indispensable to modern business as the telephone, the electric light or the cash register.

Large department stores use page after page of advertising space in daily newspapers, and it is one of the best investments they make. The evolution of advertising has been steady and dramatic, and this is a trend which is continuing.

Seventy-five years ago, newspaper advertisements consisted mainly of small announcements, often headed by the word "Notice!" The wording of many of them was not changed for years. It was patent medicine manufacturers who first saw large possibilities in newspaper advertisements and at one time some of these firms spent more money on national advertising than any other manufacturers.

Local advertising, as always, continues to be the backbone of newspaper advertising lineage. But national advertisers spend hundreds of millions of dollars for space, with automobile manufacturers, electric appliance makers and marketers of beauty aids large users of newspaper space.

Never were newspaper ads so interesting or so large and numerous. It is a real pleasure to read them.

The Creative Society

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
SACRAMENTO, Calif.

When Governor Ronald Reagan points to the swelling buds of the early California spring and says he doesn't want to go to Washington, D. C., as Vice President, you can believe him. But it isn't the prospect of losing the California spring, it's the possible taint of insincerity, if Reagan were to take second place on a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket, that bothers members of the Governor's staff. They have been burned a bit by the negative reaction of conservatives to Reagan's recent choice of Casper Weinberger, a Republican liberal, to the post of State Finance Director. "If conservatives have trouble taking a Weinberger," says one of Reagan's men, "What would they do if the Governor were to be part of a Rockefeller deal?"

You come into a much different political climate when you move south from the Oregon State capital of Salem to Sacramento. In Oregon, where they really talk up the Rockefeller-Reagan idea, they point to the "action-oriented" similarities between Rockefeller's handling of New York State's problems and Reagan's activities in California. Both governors, they point out, are creative rather than negative, and they believe in tapping the best minds. Rockefeller brings in business men such as the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, Gustave Levy, and the Ford Motor Company's Arjay Miller to advise him on what to do about welfare; Reagan puts the bee on big corporations to lend him the services of 250 business executives to make a study of state operations. (The Reagan task force has just come up with 1,800 suggested changes, 137 of which were made scarcely before the ink was dry on the report.)

For all their pragmatic similarities, however, the fiscal approaches of the two governors are entirely different. Rocky doesn't mind big bond issues to pay for his projects; Reagan though he had to accept a billion in new taxes last year, which makes the California $5.7 billion budget bigger than New York's proposed $5.5 billion, tries to carve out departmental savings, not to hand them back to the taxpayers but to pay for increased government services. It's tough to do this when the cost of such things as Medi-Cal, the local federal-state Medicaid program, can balloon without warning, but Reagan still gives it the old Eureka College try.

Students of the art of creation have stressed something called bringing two things together which no one has ever thought of relating to each other before. This is Reagan's forte. Before he came to Sacramento, the people of the Department of Public Works (which includes supervision of highway construction) hardly knew the people in the Department of Water Resources. But, since the two departments both have a common interest in moving earth, Reagan insisted that they synchronize their activities. The state is currently digging a new canal for irrigation purposes down the west side of the great California Central Valley. In the old days the Department of Water Resources would have dumped its excavated earth anywhere it could find a few useless holes. But the Reagan way is to put a single administrator over the canal digging project and a freeway construction project. The fill from the canal site goes directly to help in new highway construction, at a saving to the State of $5,500,000.

One of the things that Reagan bubbles about in the buoyant fashion that never deserts him is the art of turning old red tape into solid government investment. California highways are financed by a gas tax, and the money collected must be spent. There is a temptation to be sloppy about the spending of money that comes in anyway. By using rigorous controls, the Reagan Administration managed to save $110 million on highway construction department expenses, all of which has gone into shoving California road building projects ahead by a full year. It's red tape into roads, says Reagan.

Then there was the business of sending out motor vehicle department renewals before January 1, before the six-cent federal postage stamp became mandatory. The state saved $110,000 by getting mailings out early.

So this is the Creative Society, close up. It's just another case of more bang for the buck. The Rockefeller way, say the Reaganites, differs from the Reagan Creative Society way by using more taxpayer and bond purchaser bucks for more bang. If this assessment is fair, there is a salient difference between the pragmatist of Albany, New York, and the pragmatist of Sacramento, California, even though both are spending lots of money.

Many critics are of the opinion, of course, that the dropping of passenger trains, the merging of lines and the rate increases are related, and not just chronologically. This may or may not be so.

However, the sequence of these factors, real or imagined, is causing some renewed concern and criticism among interested parties as to whether the federal government, regulator of the rails, has been:

— Overwhelmed by an outpouring of evidence, testimony and plain propaganda into viewing the immediate profit-plight of the rails as more important than the long-range requirements of society.

— Conduced into believing that a reduction of competition would lead to the greatest efficiency and the lowest prices in transporting goods.

— Lax in its concern for the traveling public by agreeing with the railroads that customers just don't want to use the rails — although millions of people obviously would use them if they were modernized.

The railroads' argument for rate increases generally is that they are caught in a profit squeeze. It is an old argument and often has merit. The present claim, for example, is that wages have risen and so prices must. This can be defended, especially in period of inflation.

In the past the lines have argued that profits were damaged by growing competition from jet airplanes, superhighways and inland waterways, all of which benefit to some degree from federal funds. These arguments were generally considered to be justified.

Federal research, in fact, business.

may have worsened the conditions by concentrating on rivers, roads and air space and doing little with the rails.

And there was costly featherbedding.

In more instances than management cares to admit, however, the responses to these challenges were regressive. They raised rates while permitting service to deteriorate, thus assuring decay. Ancient equipment and ideas were applied to formidable modern problems.

The more aggressive, innovative modern management tactics and technology were not applied until considerable decay had set in, much of which is the present cause of troubles, even though the growth of the nation's economy seemed to assure the railroads of growing business.

Nuns Go for Dresses, Permanent Waves

By GENE HANDSAKER Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They wear dresses. Some get permanent waves. They use their real names and sleep as late as they wish. So what's unusual?

The difference is that these are nuns—members of the schoolteaching Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. And they're involved in one of the hottest controversies sizzling anywhere in Roman Catholicism: ferment over "renewal."

The sisters say the way they dress, the hours they keep and other changes are to update their 97-year-old order and help it serve the modern world.

But across town in the chancery office, 81-year-old James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, disapproves. He is known both as a parish builder and as a firm traditionalist.

In resolutions and letters to newspapers, many laymen, Franciscans, Jesuits and others heatedly take sides.

In the balance is whether most of 200 Immaculate Heart sisters will return next fall to their teaching posts in 36 parochial schools of the Los Angeles archdiocese.

As matters stand—at an impasse—they well may not, considering themselves fired by Cardinal McIntyre. Some parochial school doors could close and hundreds of Catholic youngsters be thrown into public schools.

What's the nub of the hassle?

For one thing, dress. No longer in ankle-length, dark blue habits with starched white headgear and black veils, sisters stroll the campus of Immaculate Heart College in dresses so contemporary you can't tell nuns from students or visiting mothers.

The college, its 14 beautifully landscaped, tranquil acres sloping steeply into the Hollywood Hills, is a girls' liberal arts school with an enrollment of 1,100. Its convent is mother house or headquarters for the Immaculate Heart order, most of whose 560 sisters teach in Catholic schools of the Southwest.

Some sisters are visiting beauty parlors and getting permanent waves for the first time in their lives.

Most have dropped ecclesiastical Latin names for the names they had since infancy. Sister Mary Humiliata, the order's vital and gracious mother general, for example, is now Sister Anita Caspari.

No longer do sisters rise invariably at 5:20 a.m. and, in the experience of one, "spend the first three hours of the day in a fog. It was possible to sleep through morning prayers. I speak from experience."

Gone is the no-conversation "grand silence" among sisters from 9 p.m. until after breakfast next morning. Gone is the arbitrary 10 p.m. lights out. Nuns set their own schedules for retiring, rising, praying, meditating and attending Mass. The only rule on late-night talk is thoughtfulness for others.

The sisters announced their experimental changes last October, saying they were in keeping with Pope Paul VI's exhortation to Catholic orders "to examine and renew their way of life and to engage in wide-ranging experimentation in achieving this renewal."

Gradually the word got out that the cardinal disapproved, that he even had fired the tradition-defying schoolteachers. Sister Anita, the mother general, wrote 7,500 parents: "After 82 years in the archdiocese of Los Angeles, the sisters of the Immaculate Heart are being asked to stop teaching your children in the parochial schools."

Cardinal McIntyre issued a statement denying that he had dismissed the sisters. It did say they had been asked to determine how many wish to remain teachers "as religious"—that is, as members of a religious order.

"Sure he has fired them," says a male instructor at Immaculate Heart College. "The issue is whether institutions of the Church can be democratized or whether the old Roman law will prevail. The cardinal stands for the old Roman law."

The cardinal has said "the final decision on the future steps to be taken by the Immaculate Heart sisters resides with the sisters themselves."

Robinson's Son Faces Drug Charge

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jackie Robinson Jr., is facing charges today of possessing narcotics.

The 21-year-old son of the first Negro to break into major league baseball was arraigned Monday after his arrest on a Stamford street by detectives who said they found several packets of heroin, and a pouch of marijuana on his persons.

"We have obviously failed somewhere," Jack Sr. told reporters after the arraignment before Circuit Court Judge George Diczienzo.

In the courtroom earlier, Jack Jr. had tried to plead guilty to charges of possessing narcotics and carrying a concealed weapon. The police said they also found a .22-caliber pistol made in Italy when they arrested him early Monday.

But Judge Diczienzo told young Robinson that he would be able to enter a plea later. The date for a hearing was set for March 11.

Jack Sr. told reporters that he blamed himself for his son's predicament. An adviser to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Robinson said he has been away from home too often and too long.

"I had the feeling something was wrong, but I couldn't get through to him," he said of his son.

Jack Jr., who was returned from Vietnam last year after receiving shrapnel wounds in action with the U.S. Army, lived in his own apartment, his father said.

Jack Jr. had admitted smoking marijuana in Vietnam, the elder Robinson said.

Man Airborne For Record Try

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Aeronautical engineer Jim Bede of Cleveland is airborne. He hopes to remain there about 50 hours and fly a total distance of 7,688 miles for the world's closed-course distance record for light aircraft.

Bede, 34, is piloting a sailplane modified to accommodate a 210-horsepower engine and a 565-gallon fuel supply. The aircraft cruises at around 170 miles per hour.

Bede took off from Wichita at 11 a.m. Monday. His course will take him twice to Baltimore, Jacksonville, Fla., Miami, Corpus Christi, Tex., and Wichita.

Max Conrad, the flying grandfather, holds the record of 6,921 miles set in July of 1960.

Japanese General Commits Suicide

TOKYO (AP) — A suicide note has been found in the study of a high official of Japan's self-defense agency who was found dead in a water reservoir, police said today.

In the note Maj. Gen. Jizo Yamaguchi, 53, said he was taking his life to assume responsibility for "my incapacity which has caused the leakage." He had been questioned about the indictment of an air force colonel accused of passing classified defense information to a representative of Howard Hughes' Hughes Aircraft Co.

Copter Lifts 45 Crewmen From Tower

LONDON (AP) — Battling 80-mile winds, a British Coast Guard helicopter ran a life-saving taxi service today and lifted all 45 crewmen from an oil drilling rig breaking up in the North Sea.

No casualties were reported. The rig, the $6 million Ocean Prince, radioed from 110 miles off England's northeast coast that the gale winds and heavy seas were threatening to sink it and rescue ships could not get near.

The rig's giant drilling tower crashed into the pounding waves, and the rig listed badly as the crew huddled in lifejackets on the deck.

The rescue helicopter first made several 17-mile trips to another rig, the Constellation, bringing 36 of the Ocean prince's crew for transfer to the coastal resort town of Scarborough.

Then the helicopter flew direct to Scarborough with the other nine crewmen.

The drilling tower toppled shortly after dawn. The helicopter reached the rig an hour later.

The rig is owned by the Ocean Drilling and Exploration Co. (U.K.) Ltd., a British company.

Copter Lifts 45 Crewmen From Tower

LONDON (AP) — Battling 80-mile winds, a British Coast Guard helicopter ran a life-saving taxi service today and lifted all 45 crewmen from an oil drilling rig breaking up in the North Sea.

No casualties were reported. The rig, the $6 million Ocean Prince, radioed from 110 miles off England's northeast coast that the gale winds and heavy seas were threatening to sink it and rescue ships could not get near.

The rig's giant drilling tower crashed into the pounding waves, and the rig listed badly as the crew huddled in lifejackets on the deck.

The rescue helicopter first made several 17-mile trips to another rig, the Constellation, bringing 36 of the Ocean Prince's crew for transfer to the coastal resort town of Scarborough.

Then the helicopter flew direct to Scarborough with the other nine crewmen.

The drilling tower toppled shortly after dawn. The helicopter reached the rig an hour later.

The rig is owned by the Ocean Drilling and Exploration Co. (U.K.) Ltd., a British company.

See Gold Buying Move To Force Dollar Devaluation

LONDON (AP) — The British pound dropped to a new low today as demand for gold continued high.

At the opening of the London money market, the pound was quoted at $2.3975, 33 points below Monday's high. The closing price Monday was $2.3997, nine points below Friday's level, after a high for the day of $2.4008 in the afternoon.

The Bank of England stepped in almost at the opening today to support the pound and the rate rose to $2.3985.

The dollar parity price for gold at the daily fixing remained just under the ceiling at $35.19-3/4.

An estimated 25-35 tons changed hands at the fixing, and subsequent sales were expected to raise the day's total on the London market to 50 tons, equaling Friday's mark but far below the crisis level last December.

Both the pound and the dollar continued under heavy attack on continental exchanges.

A determined bid appeared to be getting under way to force the United States to raise the gold price of $35 dollar an ounce it is committed to maintain. This in effect would be a devaluation of the dollar.

The Daily Telegraph said editorially: "The United States government will have to do something drastic fairly soon unless the speculative buying of gold ceases, which is highly improbable."

Alert Doorman Sees 'Auto Thief'

NEW YORK (AP) — A midtown doorman watched agast while a man went to work with a bent coat hanger trying to open a sleek, black limousine.

"There's a redhaired man trying to steal a car," the doorman phoned police. But when patrolmen arrived minutes later the man was gone.

An hour later the man was back—this time carrying a spare ignition key.

He identified himself as John Ryan, chauffeur for City Council President Frank D. O'Connor and explained he'd locked his other keys inside.

O'Connor told newsmen, "Look, there isn't a man alive who hasn't locked his keys in the car at one time or another."

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a musical event of importance when Arthur Rubenstein, David Oistrakh and the Bolshoi Ballet appear together in one concert.

The occasion Tuesday night was CBS's 90-minute special, "S. Hurok Presents." The program was presented with complete simplicity. It opened with Oistrakh playing the Bach Violin Concerto. The Bolshoi Ballet and three soloists then presented a portion of Adolphe Adams, "Giselle." The final, longest portion was the 77-year-old Rubenstein playing Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 in full.

During the final portion, the camera became more active and inventive, moving from close-ups of Rubenstein's face to his hands on the keyboard, also doing some double shots and focusing on some of the instrumentalists in the orchestra.

Since the Telephone Hour started its last season, the business of skipping middle-of-the-show commercials has become something of a TV status symbol.

Fair Housing Referendum Fails

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A recount indicates that a city fair housing ordinance has withstood a referendum aimed at repealing it.

The ordinance officially passed by 30 votes, the Genesee County Board of Canvassers said Tuesday after a second recount of the votes in the Feb. 20 election.

Following the second recount, the vote was: 20,170 for the ordinance, 20,140 against it.

Test Water Bumper

CHICAGO (AP) — Safety-minded motorists soon may be telling their service station attendants to "filler 'er with gas, check the oil and put some water in the bumper." The new approach to safety, vinyl bumpers filled with water, was demonstrated Tuesday in Chicago. Plugs along the top of the bumpers pop out on impact to let the water squeeze out, cushioning the force of collisions.

The sponsors of the Hurok show, a mutual fund, had only the briefest, soft-sell statement at the program's end, and in a curious innovation, gave the home viewers an intermission of absolute silence for a minute between the three segments of the program.

Earlier, NBC presented a summary of the career of the late Clark Gable. MGM, the studio for whom Gable made most of his films during his long career, produced the program and tagged it a documentary. Actually it consisted of bits from many of his films, a sketchy biography covering his prewar years, and some very brief, but hardly incisive reminiscences by people who knew him then and later.

In spite of the gushy, superficial writing, it was a fascinating show to watch. We saw Gable the lover—he gathered into his strong arms all the great women stars from the early 1930s to his death in 1960—from Garbo to Ava Gardner and Marilyn Monroe. We even saw him as Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind,"—just a few clips from a film that has been withheld from TV broadcast.

It is a big night for specials and ABC, with them all, has pre-empted its entire Wednesday night schedule to make room. The first is "The Savage World of the Coral Jungle," 7:30-8:30 EST—second in the undersea series of Jacques-Yves Cousteau. Then comes a half-hour called "The Now Generation," that has Ryan O'Neal of "Peyton Place" interviewing Mia Farrow on her life and ideas. Princess Grace will be a tour guide on a musical trip around Monaco—9-10. Then comes the first of a three-part adaptation of William L. Shirer's massive history of Nazi Germany, "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich."

Ohio's Riot Law Potent Weapon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The riot control bill just passed by the Ohio Legislature and awaiting the signature of Gov. James A. Rhodes will give law enforcement officials and organized militia some new and potent tools to handle riots and disorders in the state.

The act would set up first and second-degree riots.

First-degree riots would be five or more persons participating in "violent and tumultuous conduct" with intent to commit or facilitate a felony or any misdemeanor or felony involving force or violence against persons or when a firearm or other deadly weapon or explosive or incendiary device is used or intended to be used.

Second-degree riots would be five or more persons participating in "violent and tumultuous conduct" with intent to create a clear and present danger to the safety of persons or property, to prevent or coerce official action or hinder or obstruct a function of government or to commit or facilitate a misdemeanor.

Violators of first-degree riot would be subject to $1,000 fine and a year in jail or 1-3 years in prison.

The penalty for second-degree rioting would be $1,000 fine and up to a year in jail.

Inciting to first-degree rioting could result in a $1,000 fine and up to a year in jail or 1-3 years in prison.

When five or more persons engage in violent and tumultuous conduct creating a clear and present danger to life and property and refuse to disperse after the riot act is read, they could be fined up to $50.

A person who knowingly assaults or wounds a law enforcement officer or fireman in performance of official duties could be fined $1,000 and sentenced up to a year in jail, with five days mandatory.

Assaulting, striking or wounding an officer, fireman or member of the militia or armed services while performing official duty during a riot could lead to $1,000 fine and a year in jail with 30 days mandatory.

To present laws against damaging public or private property and utility facilities would be added fire hydrants. The penalty would be a $10,000 fine and 1-20 years in prison.

The act would add to the present law on grand larceny involving property over $60, the theft of a firearm regardless of value. This would result in a 1-7 year prison term upon conviction.

Persons convicted of first-degree rioting, who have a firearm in their possession at the time, could be given an additional sentence of 1-3 years in prison.

To combat looting, the measure sets up a new section covering trespassing without legal justification on property damaged by vandalism, riot, insurrection, invasion, fire, explosion, collapse, storm, flood or other calamity. Violators could be subject to $500 fine and six months in jail.

In suppressing riots or apprehending rioters, law enforcement officials, members of the militia and firemen would be held "guiltless" for killing, maiming or injuring a rioter if such force as is necessary and proper to suppress the riot or disperse rioters is used.

Children's Comments Make City Report a Best Seller

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) — "If there were no waste disposal... our town will smell."

"I like the water company because they dig big holes in the street."

These are a few of the quotes that have made this year's town report an instant best seller in this north-of-Boston community.

Instead of stuffy lists of municipal accomplishments, the report features young school children's comments about their town of 20,000 population.

Children's drawings by the hundreds illustrate it with a youngster's imagination.

The report, "as children see us," is the idea of Town Manager Richard J. Bowen. In an introduction he says: "There is a simplicity of truth in the eyes of children."

Although most of the report contains sober accounts by various town officials, here are a few by the youngsters:

Police: "The policeman helps me when I am kidnapped."

Firemen: "The fireman helps us if our house is on fire. If your brother is in the house the fireman goes in and gets the boy out."

Highways: "Streets are very important. We drive on streets to go places."

The park department: "Trees help keep the sun away from hot people."

But the street lighting department gets a dig: "We need a new light on our street."

One youngster dismissed Memorial Hall Library in big letters: "Libraries are for book worms."

Parental conversation at the dinner table probably inspired this: "The town meeting is accepting our road. We payed a hundred dollars for it. Others payed a million."

Jodi Steele Crowned Queen Of Easter Seal Campaign

EASTER SEAL MAIL — Richard Plum, chairman of the 1968 Easter Seal Campaign, hands a box of mail to Norman Anderson, post office employee. Over 8,000 pieces of mail were delivered to the post office.

The 1968 Easter Seal Teen Queen, Miss Jodi Steele, was crowned last night by the 1967 outgoing Teen Queen, Miss Melissa Willoughby, in the Easter Seal Kick-off Meeting held at Calvary EUB Church.

JODI STEELE

Miss Steele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steele, 1017 Mulberry Road, and Miss Willoughby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Willoughby, 359 Cedar Heights Road.

The kick-off session had as its special speaker, Mrs. Nell Davy, program consultant for The Ohio Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc. Mrs. Davy stated that the Crippled Children's Society was born in Ohio, nurtured by Daddy Allen and Ohio Rotary Clubs, and that Ohio will be host to the National Convention in November 1969, marking its 50th Anniversary, when some 3,000 persons will come to Ohio to honor the Easter Seal Society.

She stated that the future holds a greater challenge than the past and this challenge cannot be ignored—or attacked in a haphazard fashion. There is a need to look at the future for Americans in their disabilities, chronic diseases and accident future.

She also pointed out that 26 million are limited by chronic diseases and accidents, at a cost of 58 billion dollars in the U. S. economy, and that 400,000 children have epilepsy, 500,000 have hearing losses, 3,000,000 have speech problems and 10,000,00 have eye conditions requiring special care. The Crippled Children's Society cannot do the job alone, but in 1966 it rendered services to 237,787 persons, 163,803 of which were children.

Warsaw Pact Meet Opens At Sofia; More Wrangling

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Leaders of the seven Soviet Bloc nations gathered in the Bulgarian capital today for a Warsaw Pact summit meeting threatened with more wrangling between the Russians and the maverick Romanians.

Bucharest's delegation walked out of the international meeting of Communist parties in Budapest last week rather than sit still for criticism of Romanian policy and Red China. In what looked like an attempt to patch things up, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev stopped in Bucharest on his way to Sofia and met with Romanian party chief Nicolae Ceausescu.

The Soviet delegation arrived in Sofia today. It also included Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko.

At the meeting, which is expected to last until Friday, the Communist leaders will discuss the Soviet-American draft of a proposed treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, the Vietnam situation and other subjects, Communist sources said.

The nuclear treaty draft appeared likely to be the chief source of trouble. The Soviet Union is believed seeking unified support of it from its allies, but Romania has opposed the draft in the Geneva disarmament talks and is expected to repeat its arguments here.

After their walkout in Budapest last week, the Romanians warned that they would not tolerate any criticism of their positions at the summit meeting here.

South Court PTA Slates Movie

The South Court St. Parent Teacher Assn. will present the film, "The Talking Bear," Saturday at the school.

There will be two showings, one at 1 p. m. and the second at 3 p. m. Doors will open at 12:45 p. m. and at 2:45 p. m. The movie is 86 minutes long.

The story recounts the hilarious adventures of Gocha, the bear who can ride a bicycle, drive a car, play cards and juggle and of his friend the bear keeper.

LE Board OKs Purchase Of Equipment

The Logan Elm Board of Education held its regular meeting Monday, approving the purchase of equipment for the vocational business program.

The board also approved the purchase of shop equipment under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and the purchase of a driver testing unit for driver education.

Two driver education courses have been approved for the summer with 41 students already registered. A total of 64 students have registered for the fall driver ed program.

John Henn, executive head of the Logan Elm School district, made a report on a survey of teachers in the district.

HENN told the board that only two teachers had definitely stated they would leave the district while nine were undecided.

The tentative school calendar proposed by the county board of education which would have the first day of school Sept. 3, and end June 4, 1969, was accepted.

An advance draw of $30,000 was approved. A student activity program fund was established.

Henn was given permission to attend the Ohio Association of School Administrators June 19-21 in Columbus.

Committees were established to confer with Henn when it was felt that a board meeting was not necessary. Members of the committees are Roger Hobbie, maintenance; Wesley Graves Jr., building and grounds; Arthur Leist, transportation; Donald Bower, purchasing; Carolyn McCoy, personnel.

A report was read on the Dental Health Education program at Pickaway Second grade.

Pueblo Letter Brings New Statements from Solons

By JACK BELL,
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Senate leaders disagree on how the United States should respond if an appeal allegedly signed by captured crewmen of the Navy intelligence ship Pueblo proves to be genuine.

The appeal, made in a letter via North Korean officials, is under study by President Johnson to determine whether it is authentic.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday he had not been informed whether the White House considers valid the appeal for a U.S. apology to North Korea to gain release of the 82 surviving crew members or whether it is regarded as a fraud.

"I would want to have every possible assurance and guarantee that these men were freed, or on the verge of being freed, before we make any commitment in response to this letter," Mansfield said.

He previously had said he would be willing to have the United States admit the ship intruded into North Korean territorial waters—although he said this would be false—if that was the price of getting her crew released.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in a separate interview he wants to do everything possible to get the crew released. But he said he would not concede, as the North Koreans demand, that the ship was seized in North Korean waters.

"My heart goes out to these men who have been imprisoned," he said. "But I do not think we can base our policies on the fact that they are suffering indignities and humiliations as prisoners."

The letter allegedly signed by the crew members said they had been treated humanely.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he doesn't know whether the letter represents the views of the Pueblo sailors.

"If it is a genuine letter, it seems to me that it is offering us a way out of a bad situation," he said. "I think we ought to get off the hook there if we can. We've got enough troubles elsewhere."

Jodi Steele Crowned Queen Of Easter Seal Campaign

EASTER SEAL MAIL — Richard Plum, chairman of the 1968 Easter Seal Campaign, hands a box of mail to Norman Anderson, post office employee. Over 8,000 pieces of mail were delivered to the post office.

The 1968 Easter Seal Teen Queen, Miss Jodi Steele, was crowned last night by the 1967 outgoing Teen Queen, Miss Melissa Willoughby, in the Easter Seal Kick-off Meeting held at Calvary EUB Church.

JODI STEELE

Miss Steele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steele, 1017 Mulberry Road, and Miss Willoughby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Willoughby, 359 Cedar Heights Road.

The kick-off session had as its special speaker, Mrs. Nell Davy, program consultant for The Ohio Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc. Mrs. Davy stated that the Crippled Children's Society was born in Ohio, nurtured by Daddy Allen and Ohio Rotary Clubs, and that Ohio will be host to the National Convention in November 1969, marking its 50th Anniversary, when some 3,000 persons will come to Ohio to honor the Easter Seal Society.

She stated that the future holds a greater challenge than the past and this challenge cannot be ignored—or attacked in a haphazard fashion. There is a need to look at the future for Americans in their disabilities, chronic diseases and accident future.

King Gathers Recruits for March on Washington

By DON McKEE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., says he is confident he will get strong support for his plan to raise an army of the poor to camp in Washington.

"I am convinced we will have greater response to this than anything we've ever undertaken," King said after a recent trip to Mississippi and Alabama where he met mixed reactions. King disclosed that he intends to camp with his poor people's army for at least two months in the nation's capital beginning about April 21, demanding action by Congress to provide jobs or income for the poor.

His initial search for support took him first to Mississippi for a session with Negro leaders and then to Alabama, where he began his civil rights career 13 years ago by leading a Negro boycott of segregated city buses in Montgomery.

Now again, King expects to enlist the masses: tenant farmers who have been kicked off the plantations; others out of jobs; the underemployed, and all the sympathizers who will join the army.

"We want you to sign up and say that you will go to Washington," King told a church rally at Selma, Ala., the setting for his 1965 voting rights drive that pro-

Pipe Smokers Hold Convention

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The International Association of Pipe Smokers Clubs Inc. will hold its 20th annual pipe smoking contest and convention in Ann Arbor Aug. 2-3.

The contest winner will be the smoker who can keep his pipe going longest without relighting. Each is given 3.3 grams of tobacco. The International record was set by the late Max Ignee of Flint, Mich., who kept his pipe going 125 minutes and 7 seconds in 1954.

duced Congressional action.

"This isn't going to be an easy struggle," he acknowledged. The issue is not segregation, such as it was in 1963 when King led the Birmingham, Ala., drive that brought the Civil Rights Act of a year later. Nor, King said, is the issue political as it was in Selma three years ago.

"We are dealing with a class issue now," he said. It is the underprivileged against the privileged, King said.

"We are taking on a mammoth job," King's two-day trip that included four stops produced indications of perhaps considerable middle and upper class financial support among Negroes, but at the same time a reluctance or outright refusal of some of the Negro leadership to join the campaign.

In tangible results King's staff collected some money and pledges for more at rallies and private meetings. Plans were made for a follow-up trip and some of King's aides talked of expanding their recruitment to 23 states.

One of King's closest associates, the Rev. Andrew J. Young, said after a private session in Edwards, Miss., "I would say

Cleveland Housing Work Gets Priority

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Carl Stokes said Tuesday that housing in the city's East Side Hough area will receive top priority from a $11.7 million federal grant.

With the added funds, Stokes said, 37 parcels of land would be purchased on Crawford Road for an 88-unit addition to the Wade Apartments of the Cleveland Metropolitan Housing Authority.

The federal money came after an announcement Monday in Washington that urban renewal funds, previously stopped for the Cleveland area, would be released.

the grassroots are for it 200 per cent, but the leaders raise questions about Congress, whether or not the country is too sick to do anything about it. There is a degree of despair among the leadership."

Reservations about the undertaking were expressed by Lawrence Guyot, chairman of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party which plans another challenge of the state's delegation to the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

"If it definitely involves poor people and addresses itself to economic deficiencies and the right to dissent," said Guyot, "then I would be in favor of it."

King Gathers Recruits for March on Washington

By DON MCKEE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., says he is confident he will get strong support for his plan to raise an army of the poor to camp in Washington.

"I am convinced we will have greater response to this than anything we've ever undertaken," King said after a recent trip to Mississippi and Alabama where he met mixed reactions.

King disclosed that he intends to camp with his poor people's army for at least two months in the nation's capital beginning about April 21, demanding action by Congress to provide jobs or income for the poor.

His initial search for support took him first to Mississippi for a session with Negro leaders and then to Alabama, where he began his civil rights career 13 years ago by leading a Negro boycott of segregated city buses in Montgomery.

Now again, King expects to enlist the masses: tenant farmers who have been kicked off the plantations; others out of jobs; the underemployed, and all the sympathizers who will join the army.

"We want you to sign up and say that you will go to Washington," King told a church rally at Selma, Ala., the setting for his 1965 voting rights drive that produced Congressional action.

"This isn't going to be an easy struggle," he acknowledged. The issue is not segregation, such as it was in 1963 when King led the Birmingham, Ala., drive that brought the Civil Rights Act of a year later. Nor, King said, is the issue political as it was in Selma three years ago.

"We are dealing with a class issue now," he said. It is the underprivileged against the privileged, King said.

"We are taking on a mammoth job."

King's two-day trip that included four stops produced indications of perhaps considerable middle and upper class financial support among Negroes, but at the same time a reluctance or outright refusal of some of the Negro leadership to join the campaign.

In tangible results King's staff collected some money and pledges for more at rallies and private meetings. Plans were made for a follow-up trip and some of King's aides talked of expanding their recruitment to 23 states.

One of King's closest associates, the Rev. Andrew J. Young, said after a private session in Edwards, Miss., "I would say the grassroots are for it 200 per cent, but the leaders raise questions about Congress, whether or not the country is too sick to do anything about it. There is a degree of despair among the leadership."

Reservations about the undertaking were expressed by Lawrence Guyot, chairman of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party which plans another challenge of the state's delegation to the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

"If it definitely involves poor people and addresses itself to economic deficiencies and the right to dissent," said Guyot, "then I would be in favor of it."

Cleveland Housing Work Gets Priority
CLEVELAND (AP)— Mayor Carl Stokes said Tuesday that housing in the city's East Side Hough area will receive top priority from a $11.7 million federal grant.

With the added funds, Stokes said, 37 parcels of land would be purchased on Crawford Road for an 88-unit addition to the Wade Apartments of the Cleveland Metropolitan Housing Authority.

The federal money came after an announcement Monday in Washington that urban renewal funds, previously stopped for the Cleveland area, would be released.

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negroes seek six city commission posts and the nomination for mayor in the city's first Democratic primary since it became the target of a Negro voting rights drive three years ago.

But Negro ranks are divided over the candidacy of the Rev. L. L. Anderson for mayor, with the largest of the city's civil rights organizations, the Dallas County Voters League, hoping for white support for Negro council candidates, and denying its own support to Anderson in today's election.

Big League Crime Flourishing In Ohio

(EDITOR'S NOTE: How big is organized crime in Ohio? What does it involve? How much does it cost? An Associated Press newsman explored the questions with state and federal officers in the state. He has dug up interesting facts and figures. His findings are presented in a two-part series. Part 1 follows.)

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Big time crime is gigantic business in Ohio, dealing in everything from prostitution to parking places and from drugs to discount stores.

It reportedly has made Dayton an underworld distribution point for drugs and left Youngstown as a prize for contention between two Mafia factions.

It has spawned a multi-million dollar rum-running business on Lake Erie and gambling rings with Mafia connections stretching to New York and Louisiana.

It can supply its own night spots with its own drinks, food and cigarettes and sell its stolen goods through its own stores.

"People are sadly disillusioned about thinking it's just a little numbers and a little prostitution," says David Kessler, chief of the Ohio Attorney General's new Criminal Activities Division.

"The syndicate—if you want to call it that—that's where they get their start," he says. "They don't fool around with burglaries. They go on into legitimate businesses and start applying their old methods."

Especially popular in Ohio, Kessler says, are vending machine operations with their large quantities of loose money and oil well schemes handy for tax dodges.

The Mafia, whose 50 Ohio leaders have carved the state up into their own private fiefdoms, is only part of Ohio's professional crime problem.

Smaller operators, some of whom employ 25 to 30 accomplices, have blanketed every part of the state with some sort of racket or another, Kessler says.

"It's fantastic how much money is involved," Kessler says. "It's in the millions, the high millions, plural."

The state has files on about 7,000 persons known to have shady interests in Ohio. "If we know about that many, you can guess how many we don't know about," Kessler says.

Since the Mafia appeared in Ohio with the Cleveland syndicate in 1929, it has spread into such legitimate fronts as auto sales, parking lots, restaurants and taverns, food manufacturing and massive importing and exporting of stolen goods.

Two Mafia "families" are reported to be operating in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and New York factions were reported jostling over control of Youngstown operations as late as last October.

Louisiana's Mafia boss, Carlos "Little Man" Marcello, was linked to a $1.5 million numbers ring broken up by FBI agents in Cincinnati last year. The two Cincinnati operations were estimated to be doing business worth $400,000 each month.

At Boardman near Youngstown, agents earlier upset part of an Ohio-New York sports gambling setup with an estimated annual business of $10 million.

Kessler supports state liquor agents' often challenged claim that enough liquor is smuggled across Lake Erie by boat and plane each year to cause a $17 million tax loss to Ohio and the federal government.

Federal sources say that interstate gambling still accounts for most of their organized crime problems, but E. Winther McCroom, Assistant U. S. Attorney in Cincinnati, says the syndicate has shown new interest in drug peddling in the last year.

LSD is reported among the wares.

U. S. Atty. Bernard Stupinski of Cleveland refuses to disclose information about the Mafia. He says, however, that Youngstown's long-standing problems are "a lot better" since several major local operators were imprisoned for income tax evasion about three years ago.

In Cleveland, he says, things have been improving since the early 1960s. McCroom says no one is quite sure whether things are getting better or worse in Cincinnati.

Stolen goods circulate around and in and out of Ohio in such quantity that "customers" virtually can order suits to size and color through the network.

"Sometimes I think half the suits in Ohio are stolen, they take so many," Kessler says.

"Television sets! thousands, thousands of sets," cries Kessler about another theft operation. "It's gotten so big that some insurance companies won't underwrite appliance stores any more."

Television sets were involved in the first alleged crime ring case taken to court with the help of the Criminal Activities Division. It allegedly involved stolen goods in at least 13 counties and two states and resulted in 14 indictments in Franklin County this year.

"There will be more," Kessler says.

Money Sought For Dam Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Natural Resources Department asked the State Controlling Board today to release $3.2 million as the state's share toward construction of a $5.1 million water storage reservoir dam on the Auglaize River near Lima.

The dam, part of the recently completed northwestern Ohio water program, would store nearly 5 billion gallons of water covering a 610 acre area.

It would provide a public water supply for the Lima area, as well as recreational and agricultural facilities.

The state has files on about 7,000 persons known to have shady interests in Ohio. "If we know about that many, you can guess how many we don't know about," Kessler says.

Since the Mafia appeared in Ohio with the Cleveland syndicate in 1929, it has spread into such legitimate fronts as auto sales, parking lots, restaurants and taverns, food manufacturing and massive importing and exporting of stolen goods.

Two Mafia "families" are reported to be operating in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and New York factions were reported jostling over control of Youngstown operations as late as last October.

Louisiana's Mafia boss, Carlos "Little Man" Marcello, was linked to a $1.5 million numbers ring broken up by FBI agents in Cincinnati last year. The two Cincinnati operations were estimated to be doing business worth $400,000 each month.

At Boardman near Youngstown, agents earlier upset part of an Ohio-New York sports gambling setup with an estimated annual business of $10 million.

Kessler supports state liquor agents' often challenged claim that enough liquor is smuggled across Lake Erie by boat and plane each year to cause a $17 million tax loss to Ohio and the federal government.

Federal sources say that interstate gambling still accounts for most of their organized crime problems, but E. Winther McCroom, Assistant U. S. Attorney in Cincinnati, says the syndicate has shown new interest in drug peddling in the last year.

LSD is reported among the wares.

U. S. Atty. Bernard Stupinski of Cleveland refuses to disclose information about the Mafia. He says, however, that Youngstown's long-standing problems are "a lot better" since several major local operators were imprisoned for income tax evasion about three years ago.

In Cleveland, he says, things have been improving since the early 1960s. McCroom says no one is quite sure whether things are getting better or worse in Cincinnati.

Stolen goods circulate around and in and out of Ohio in such quantity that "customers" virtually can order suits to size and color through the network.

"Sometimes I think half the suits in Ohio are stolen, they take so many," Kessler says. "Television sets! thousands, thousands of sets," cries Kessler about another theft operation. "It's gotten so big that some insurance companies won't underwrite appliance stores any more."

Television sets were involved in the first alleged crime ring case taken to court with the help of the Criminal Activities Division. It allegedly involved stolen goods in at least 13 counties and two states and resulted in 14 indictments in Franklin County this year.

"There will be more," Kessler says.

Await Next Civil Rights Bill Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a civil rights protection open housing bill, victors in a showdown over bringing the measure to a vote, vow to fight a bid to hook on an anti-riot rider.

A measure that could make it a federal crime to go from one state to another—or to use radio, television or other interstate facilities—with intent to incite a riot was offered as an amendment by Sens. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The anti-riot proposal was called up just before the Senate adjourned Monday night after a day in which a seven-week filibuster against the compromise civil rights bill was broken.

The vote to close out debate on the compromise measure was 65 to 32, just enough for the required two-thirds majority. Three earlier attempts to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting closure rule had failed.

The bill's supporters jubilantly hailed the vote as assuring Senate passage, although controversial open-housing section may have to be modified further.

FAVORS ROCKY—Talking to a nationwide television audience from a New York studio, the city's Mayor John Lindsay says he hopes New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will "move forward and become an open candidate" for the Republican presidential nomination. The mayor said Rockefeller would make "an excellent president."

Money Sought For Dam Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Natural Resources Department asked the State Controlling Board today to release $3.2 million as the state's share toward construction of a $5.1 billion water storage reservoir dam on the Auglaize River near Lima.

The dam, part of the recently completed northwestern Ohio water program, would store nearly 5 billion gallons of water covering a 610 acre area.

It would provide a public water supply for the Lima area, as well as recreational and agricultural facilities.

Maj. John Wesley Powell made history as the first explorer to brave the mysteries and rapids of the Colorado. The veteran of the Civil War ran the wild river with only one arm, since he had lost the other at Shiloh.

Two Area Residents Run Ohio's Shortest Railroad

ENGINEERS CHECK SCHEDULE — Two Circleville men, Norvil Vanover (left) and Ewell Watts, both Lockbourne AFB engineers on the shortest railroad in Ohio, check shipment schedules for the month as part of their daily chores.

"Team work is our formula for success," say two Circleville railroad engineers assigned to Lockbourne AFB.

"There is no room for the 'hero type' image in the rail system," comments Ewell Watts, rail section chief at the base. "We are like one closely-knit family, very dependent upon the other person," adds Norvil Vanover, his assistant.

The two civilian train engineers are no greenhorns in the railway field with 23-years combined experience. Watts resides at 429 John St., with his wife, Lucille. Vanover lives at Route 3 with his wife, Wendy, and their one-year-old daughter, Deanna.

Both Watts and Vanover worked with the Norfolk and Western Railroad System before entering Air Force civil service.

The change from civilian employment to the Air Force did not present any problem for the 44-year-old Watts. "Duties are very similar," he stated, "besides, Norfolk and Western is the interchanging carrier to the installation."

"I was a yardman while I worked for the Norfolk and Western," the 28-year-old Vanover explained. "I would never know when I would work, now, I basically work eight hours a day and am able to plan events with my family."

Watts had the Portsmouth-Columbus run before service. He added "... I am closer to home and have better work hours."

The engineers perform all phases of the rail system — engineering, brakeman, yardmaster, clerical and administrative, blocking and bracing, maintenance and spotting.

One of the daily duties is the morning inspection of the 80-ton diesel-electric locomotive and any repairs short of a major breakdown. The team also checks Lockbourne's five miles of track which makes this the shortest railroad in Ohio.

"Blocking and bracing always presents various problems," says Vanover. "Each time we have a shipment to be sent off base, it has to be packaged securely to prevent cargo damage."

Before the shipment can be released, the cargo has to be inspected by a NW representative.

"The rail section handles an average of 25 cars a month," Watts said. "We have received and handled cargo ranging from a muffler for a jet aircraft to 75-tons of coal."

Reds Upgrading Weapons To Counter U.S. Array

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — In the long-past days of the war against the French, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's guerrillas boasted that their weapons were almost all captured on the battlefield.

Then the wily Giap introduced cumbersome but effective pack howitzers to outgun the defenders at Dien Bien Phu. It helped turn the tide, wearing down the defenses and closing the airstrip which was the outpost's lifeline.

The lesson impressed the Communist command. Not for them the wide array of weaponry in modern armies. They wanted specific weapons for specific tasks.

The recent Tet offensive shows they now have these weapons in good supply if not abundance.

More than two years ago the command decided that captured arms would not prevail against American firepower.

The first, and perhaps most effective, new weapon to reach the guerrillas was the Soviet-designed AK47 assault rifle, a simple, stubby automatic that is slightly less lethal than the U.S. M16 but also less complicated.

The AK47 is now the standard infantry weapon for North Vietnamese regulars and almost all guerrillas. They are flowing in steadily—some captured AK47s have been manufactured as recently as 1967.

With the AK47, the Communists in one massive resupply effort outclassed the South Vietnamese forces, still largely armed with the U.S. carbine from Korea War days. To this day relatively few South Vietnamese forces have the U.S. M16.

Simultaneously, the Communists began to ship in more 82 mm mortars, new 120 mm mortars and the RPG7 grenade launcher.

The 82mm mortar could fire captured U.S. 81mm shells. It became the mainstay of widespread harassing attacks on U.S. and U.S. and South Vietnamese installations, with a range of about two miles.

The RPG7, also known as the B50, was designed for use against tanks. This light, shoulder-fired weapon, similar to the old U.S. bazooka, has proved deadly against bunkers, fixed installations and vehicles.

Its rocket-boosted charge can penetrate 10 inches of steel. It has been used effectively against patrol boats in the Mekong Delta and elsewhere. In barrages from as much as a quarter mile away, it has rained casualties on outposts, base camps and convoys.

These weapons, however, were just for openers in the infantry war that was growing.

Longer-range weapons were necessary to strike at the more heavily guarded U.S. bases. Heavier guns were needed in the northern provinces along the demilitarized zone, where the war was slightly different. It was foreseen in the North that the Red troops would need heavy anti-aircraft weapons which could not be used extensively further south without sacrificing mobility.

The Soviet Union was asked to furnish the bulk of the weaponry and the changes became apparent about one year ago. American intelligence estimates that 75 per cent of the war supplies entering North Vietnam originate in Russia. Most of the rest comes from Red China with a small stream from other Red bloc nations.

Dear Abby: Impaired Hearing May Be the Answer

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: One of the men in our office claims that in all the 31 years he has been married he has never had a fight with his wife. He says that she has never nagged him, questioned him, or contradicted him. And furthermore, he claims that he has never heard her raise her voice to him. Is this possible?

THE OFFICE GANG
DEAR GANG: It's possible, but highly unlikely. Maybe there is something wrong with his hearing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year old man who will be getting married in a large church wedding come June. My bride is 25, and we've been engaged for two years.

I was raised in a strict home where hand-holding in public was considered sinful, so perhaps you can understand why I can't see myself kissing my bride in front of all those people in church.

I am very inhibited when it comes to public demonstrations, but I am normal otherwise.

I have told my bride that I consider a kiss between a man and his beloved a very sacred and PRIVATE affair, and I do not intend to kiss her in front of all those people in church. She says everyone will be disappointed if we don't kiss.

I explained that if I were to give her a "token" kiss, people might get the impression that I am incapable of one more passionate, and they will feel sorry for her. And if I kiss her in public the way I kiss her in private we may be in for a lot of criticism. What do you suggest?

JUNE GROOM
DEAR GROOM: Of all the reasons for kissing after a marriage ceremony, not wishing to "disappoint" the onlookers is the poorest. It seems to me that you two could compromise without going to one extreme or the other.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young woman with what I thought was a good marriage. We have two beautiful children and a lovely home.

My problem is my husband's constant companion. (I'll call him Alex.) Almost every night Alex calls here, and if he doesn't come over to spend the evening with us, my husband meets him somewhere. Usually at some bar.

If my husband and I go out together, Alex always joins us. When they are together, I feel like an intruder. Abby, I love my husband, but I am beginning to feel like a housekeeper. What should I do?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Have a talk with your husband, but remain calm, and don't become accusative or hostile. Ask him point blank what there is about Alex that he finds so fascinating. If your husband won't (or can't) try to be more of a husband to you, get professional help. Your doctor can advise you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. AND D.: If you want to see less of a troublesome neighbor, lend him some money.

Demos Won't Give Votes To McCarthy

BOSTON (AP) — Some prominent Massachusetts Democrats, including U.S. House Speaker John W. McCormack, says they will resign as candidates for the state delegation to the Democratic national convention rather than be forced to cast first-ballot votes for Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota.

President Johnson sent word Tuesday that he would neither enter the April 31 state presidential primary nor allow a stand-in to run for him, leaving McCarthy the lone candidate for the Democratic ballot when the filing deadline passed at 5 p.m.

A new Massachusetts law requires delegates, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, to vote on the first ballot at their conventions for the winner of their party's presidential preference poll in the state unless he releases them in writing.

Off-Duty Officer Slays Lawbreaker

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — An off-duty policeman shot and killed a Negro youth attempting to break into a pawn shop early Tuesday, following a night of disorders touched off by the visit of Alabama's George Wallace.

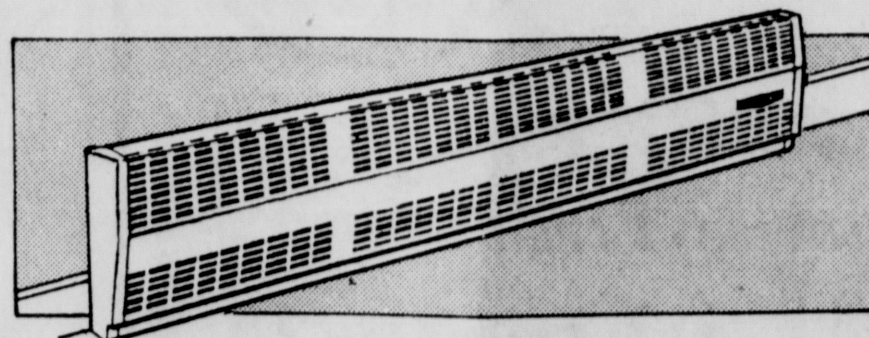

At least a dozen persons were injured as roving groups of Negro youths smashed store windows and automobile windshields and pelted two city buses with bricks and rocks.

Police fired shots in the night air to break up looting by 60 persons at the pawn shop shortly before the fatal shooting.

Xavier Beats Cincinnati

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Denison saved its biggest effort for the last, Cincinnati probably knocked itself out of a postseason tournament bid, and Central State won a trip to Kansas City.

Killy May Face FIS Suspension

POUND RIDGE, N.Y. (AP) — Jean-Claude Killy, triple gold medal winner in the recent Winter Olympic Games, has been given until Friday to show cause why he should not be suspended by the International Skiing Federation (FIS).
Killy, a Frenchman who won his gold medals in the Alpine skiing events at the Grenoble Games, denied in Saint Gervais, France, on Tuesday that he had received money for exclusive photos in a Paris magazine.
Bioern Cjellstroom, chairman of the FIS eligibility committee, said in POUND RIDGE that if Killy can prove his claim he will be cleared of any taint on his amateur record.

all but drew to a close in Ohio except for tournament action for a handful of privileged teams.
Denison captured the Ohio Conference championship, squeaking by Baldwin-Wallace 73-72. The Big Red snapped Baldwin-Wallace's 26-game homecourt winning streak in the game at Berea.
City rival Xavier nipped Cincinnati 72-71, on a basket by John Zeides with seven seconds left. Cincinnati probably lost its chance to go to the National Invitational Tournament in New York, although two spots remained to be filled.
Central State had an easier time in beating Ohio Northern 63-47 to win the NAIA District 22 championship at Ada. The Marauders go to Kansas City for the opening Monday of the national NAIA Tournament. Thirty-two teams will be scrambling for that title, which Central won in 1965.
Led by Charlie Claggett with 32 points, Denison shot a hot 67.3 per cent in beating defending OC champion B-W. The teams finished this season as the league champions.
Denison held a 41-38 halftime but Baldwin-Wallace battled back and they fought nip-and-tuck most of the second half. Carl Bolstad ended with 21 points for Denison and Terry Allerton had 22 for B-W.

Denison takes a 17-4 record into the NCAA college division tournament.
Xavier's victory was a sweet one. The Musketeers snapped a 12-game losing streak to Cincinnati, and Bob Quick dumped in 35 points for Xavier and Rick Roberson topped Cincinnati with 23.
Xavier ended the season 10-16 and Cincinnati 18-10.
Chris Buchanan sealed Central State's victory by scoring 12 straight points in the second half, finishing as the game's high scorer with 15 points. Northern could manage only four field goals in the first half as Central led at intermission 23-12.

Boston Win Not Enough For Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Time is running out for the Boston Celtics and nobody knows when Sam Jones will be back.
Boston beat New York 113-91 in a National Basketball Association game Tuesday night, but Philadelphia's 134-103 victory over San Diego cut the 76ers' magic number for clinching the Eastern Division title to six.
Jones has missed eight games with a severe virus and the Celtics have missed his scoring touch.
"I don't know when Sam will be back," said Player-Coach Bill Russell. "He's real weak. For a while they thought he had mononucleosis. I'm concerned that when he does come back he may not play well."
In other NBA action Tuesday night, Detroit edged Chicago 121-119. St. Louis trimmed San Francisco 134-117 and Baltimore topped Seattle 126-121.

Piatkowski, Foster Head MAC Cagers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami's Fred Foster, the Mid-American Conference's player of the year, and Bowling Green star Walt Piatkowski head the MAC All-Star basketball team named today by the league's seven coaches.
Foster, who led the conference in scoring with a 28.6 average, and Piatkowski, the big gun in Bowling Green's drive to the championship, were unanimous selections.
Rounding out the first team are Toledo's Steve Mix, who missed unanimous selection by one ballot, Bob Redd of Marshall and Western Michigan's Gene Ford.
Second team honors went to Gerald McKee of Ohio University, Al Hairston of Bowling Green, George Stone of Marshall, Doug Grayson of Kent State, Dan D'Antoni of Marshall, and Reggie Lacey of Western.
Honorable mention: Phil Snow, Miami; John Rudley, Toledo; John Brksker, Toledo; Al Dixon, Bowling Green; John Canine, Ohio; Bob Allen, Marshall; Bob Miller, Toledo.

Kelley 24, underwent surgery last December for removal of calcium chips in his right elbow, and now the Cleveland Indians' righthander is wondering if he'll make the team.
"What will I do if my arm isn't okay?" he asked himself, then answered, "There isn't any answer. I don't know what I'll do."

Charlie Taylor Tops NFL Catchers

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Taylor of the Washington Redskins won the National Football League's pass receiving title for the second straight year in 1967, statistics released today by the league showed.
Taylor caught 70 passes, two less than in 1966, though he missed three games with injuries. Ben Hawkins of the Philadelphia Eagles led in yards gained on pass receptions with 1,265. Homer Jones of the New York Giants caught the most touchdown passes, 13.

Suspension Of Dunbar Discussed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A decision whether to discuss the suspension of Dayton Dunbar High School from further athletic competition was expected today from the Board of Control of the Ohio High School Athletic Association.
An investigation of Dunbar's role in a brawl following a basketball game with Beavercreek at the University of Dayton last Friday night, was held Tuesday in Dayton.
The meeting was closed to the public, but OHSAA Commissioner Paul Landis said a special meeting will be held here today to decide Dunbar's immediate athletic future.
Dunbar was upset by Beavercreek 74-73, and after the game scores of fans poured onto the floor. A dozen persons were sent to hospitals, including two youths who were stabbed. One fan died of a heart attack.
Landis, after conferring with the six-member board of control Monday, announced that Dunbar had been suspended from athletic competition until an investigation was made.
Attending Tuesday's meeting were Landis, other association officials, Dunbar and Beavercreek school officials and Robert B. French, Dayton school superintendent.

Connie Hawkins tallied 41 points to lead Pittsburgh over Anaheim on the road 123-110. Dallas routed Oakland 135-117 at home and Kentucky beat New Orleans at Louisville 110-105 in the other scheduled ABA games.

The Kings, in dropping a 6-2 National Hockey League decision to Montreal Tuesday night, split their season down the middle against the northern neighbors' two teams, the Canadiens and the Toronto Maple Leafs.
The Montreal victory, in the only NHL game Tuesday, enabled the Canadiens to widen their lead in the East Division to five points over the New York Rangers.

NCAA Tournament Lineup Given

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
It will be Columbia vs. LaSalle at College Park, Md., and East Tennessee vs. Florida State at Kent, Ohio, in the first round of the NCAA national collegiate basketball championship tournament on Saturday.
Columbia, eighth-ranked nationally, gained its NCAA berth by whipping Princeton 92-74 in the playoff Tuesday night for the Ivy League title. East Tennessee landed its spot by downing Murray State 79-75 in the playoff for the Ohio Valley Conference crown.
Kansas of the Big Eight became the 14th team named to the other major postseason tournament, New York's National Invitation. Two more teams still are to be selected to fill the NIT field.

The remaining two berths in the 23-team NCAA field will go to the winners this week of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament and the West Coast Athletic Conference.
The unbeaten St. Bonaventure Brown Indians from Olean, N.Y., third-ranked nationally in The Associated Press poll to Houston and UCLA, just barely made it 24 in a row, including 22-0 this season. They had to go overtime for a 70-69 squeaker over Fairfield at New Haven, Conn.

The aroused Stags missed forcing a second overtime when Billy Jones, who scored 21 points, missed a free throw with two seconds left.
Columbia, paced by soph Jim McMillian's 37 points, exploded early in the second half to drub Princeton on St. John's neutral court in New York.
Mike Kretzer paced East Tennessee over Murray State with 21 points in the OVC play-off on Eastern Kentucky's neutral court in Richmond, Ky. It was the first OVC championship for the Buccaneers.

Fordham and Villanova, each NIT-bound, scored easy victories. Fordham whipped Colgate 91-67 and the Wildcats took Seton Hall 80-66.
Indiana defeated Wisconsin 93-85, Purdue whipped Michigan State 93-75, Providence vanquished Brown 80-66, Xavier of Ohio edged Cincinnati 72-71, North Texas took Memphis State in overtime 63-62 and Niagara upended Canisius 96-84.

Bob Harrison Loves Work As Kenyon College Coach

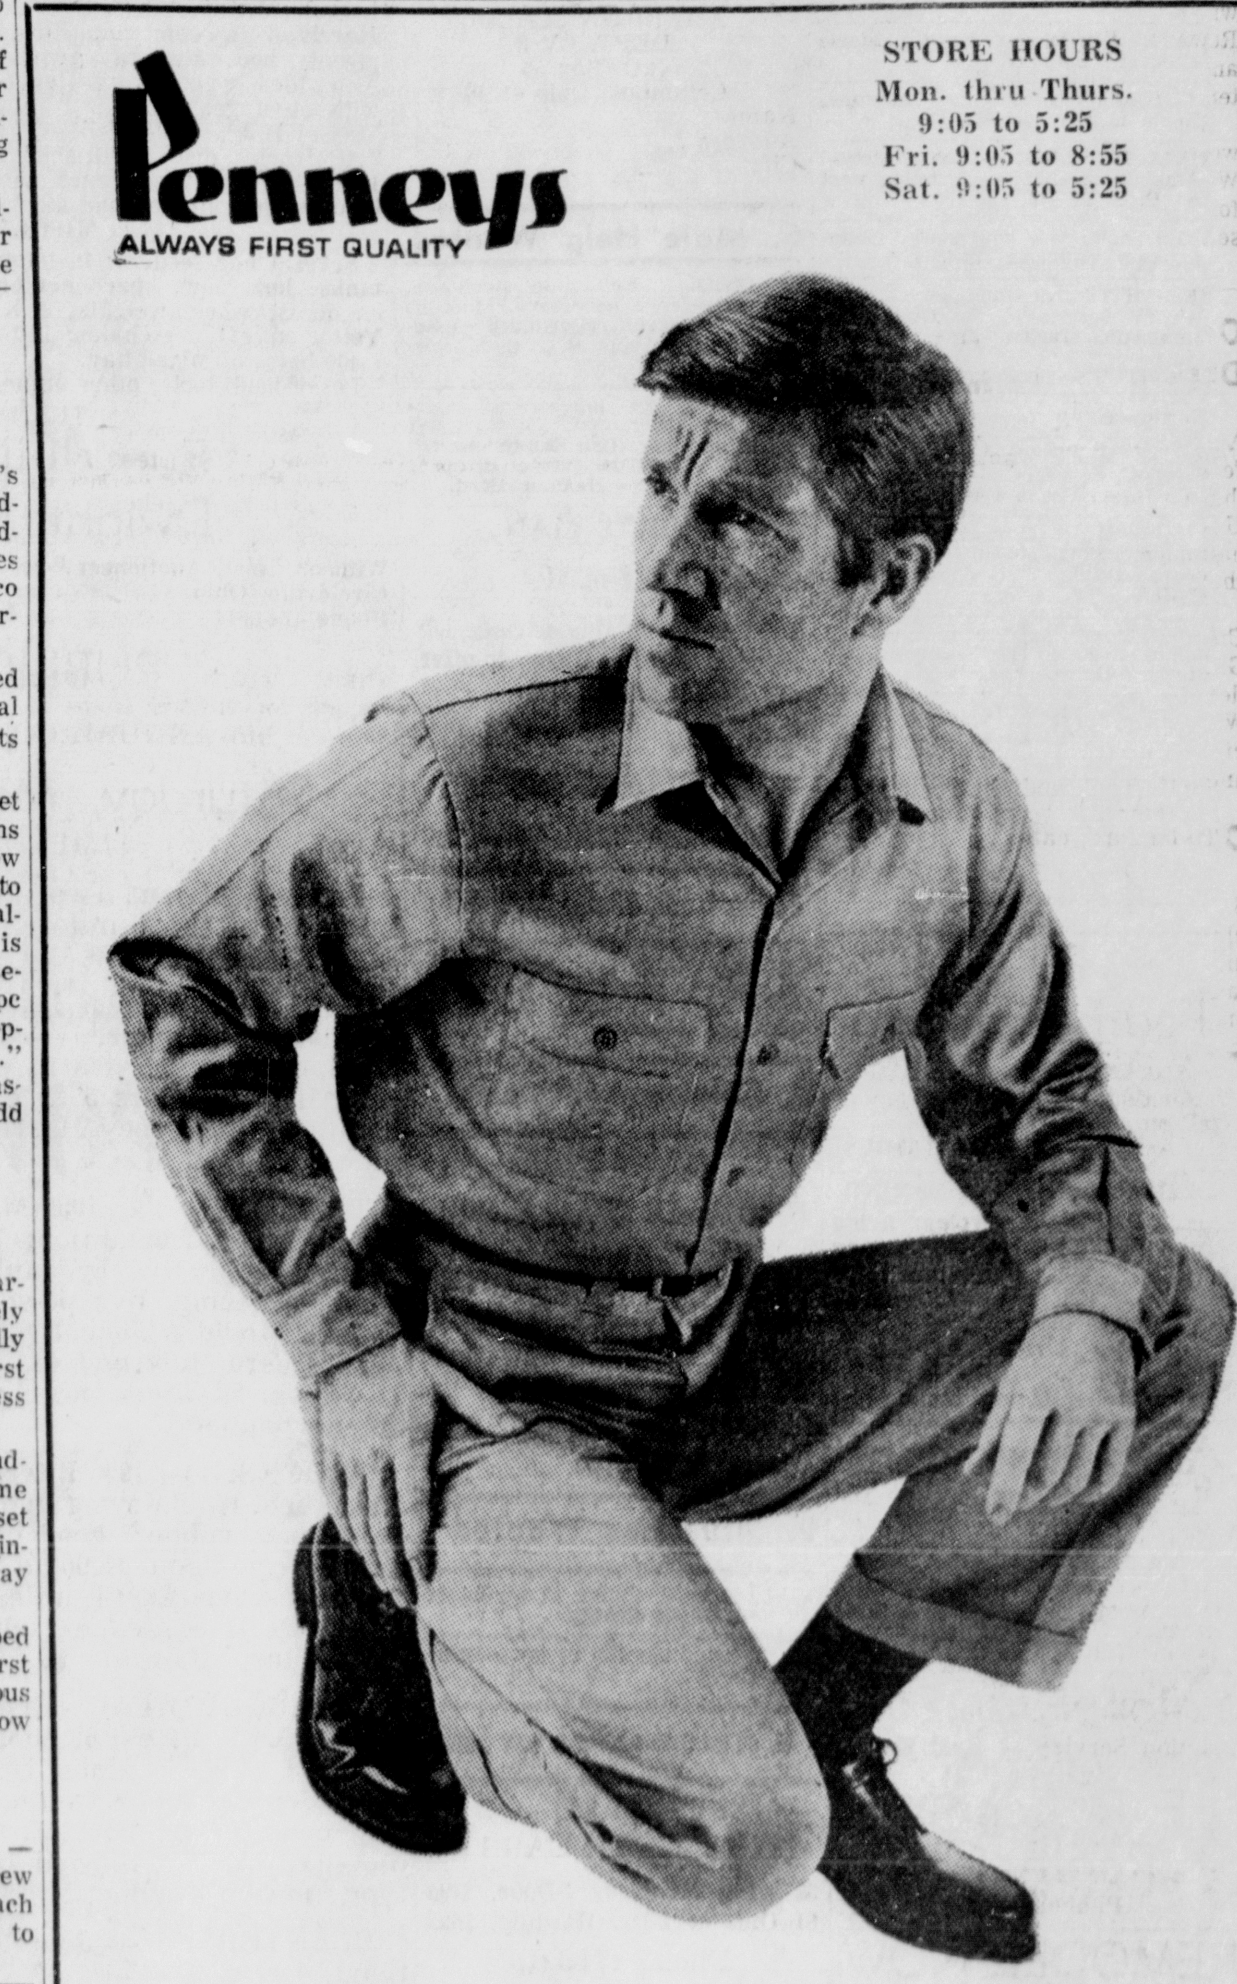

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—Bob Harrison, who has bumped elbows with some of the great names in basketball, likes teaching young players the finer points of the game.
The 40-year-old coach just completed his 10th season at Kenyon College, guiding the Lords to a 23-5 record, the finest in school history.
Kenyon is a liberal arts college for men with an enrollment slightly over 800. And Harrison, who played basketball in the Big Ten and spent nine years with the pros, loves his work.
"I had trouble at first adjusting to small college basketball," Harrison admits. "We don't have any animas here. These kids aren't here to play basketball. But they're fun to work with and I get more satisfaction out of coaching them than I would a loaded club—say like UCLA."

college ball better but I still see the pros play every chance I get."
Harrison's high-powered Kenyon club set 14 Ohio Conference records and 21 school marks but lost to Baldwin-Wallace in the OC Northern Division Tournament finale 85-82.
The popular coach played on a Big Ten championship club before joining the Minneapolis Lakers in the 1949-50 season. In five years with the Lakers, he played with such greats as George Mikan, Jim Pollard, Slater Martin and Vern Mikkelsen.
"We won four titles in five years before I spent two years at St. Louis with another great, Bob Pettit."
Then came two more years at Syracuse in the company of Dolph Schayes, Johnny Kerr and player-coach Paul Seymour, a high school teammate of Harrison's at Toledo Woodward in the early '40s.
The 6-foot-2 Harrison still shoots a few when he gets the time but admits he'd have trouble playing guard in the National Basketball Association.

"In pro ball today, the scoring is up, the shooting is better and the players are stronger. But back in the old days, the pros played tougher defense, were smarter, passed more and stressed team work."
Harrison's biggest thrill? "That's easy. In my first year with the Lakers (1949-50), we were playing Syracuse for the championship after each club had won three games in a play-off. The game was at Syracuse and neither team had been able to win on the road.
"The score was tied very late and Syracuse held the ball for a last shot. But player-coach Al Cervi missed a jumper and Pollard picked off the rebound. He passed to me uncourt and I fired from better than mid-court. The buzzer sounded while the ball still was in the air but dropped in for the winning points.
"It was a heckuva way to finish a rookie season!"

Pickaway Sports Perspective

By STEVE JONES

Jeff Lutz, a graduate of Logan Elm High School and an outstanding athlete during his prep career, will not get to see the Braves play in the tournament tonight in Columbus.
Lutz, who twice played on teams that went to the district and as a sophomore started on a squad that advanced to the regionals at Athens, lost the four fingers of his left hand in an industrial accident Monday.
He is a patient in Room 364 of St. Anthony's Hospital, Columbus. It will be one of the very few times Lutz has not watched Logan Elm in tourney action.

An unusual situation occurred at the Teays Valley Sectional tournament site this year. Capacity plus crowds were on hand every time Logan Elm, Canal Winchester, Westfall and Amanda played.
All four schools have had successful years and all four have exceptionally good followings.
Many people, in addition to Doyle Fouch who wrote the letter to the editor that appeared in Monday's Herald, have voiced complaints to standing in line and the stampede that started when the doors were opened.
This year this situation would have prevailed wherever the tournament was held. We think Benis Lutz and his staff are to be commended for an excellent job of handling the tournament.
After turning away fans at the first session, Lutz and Central District officials wisely decided to split the Feb. 24 session which would have had three of the top four drawing teams playing in the evening. Both games were before capacity crowds.
Next year, no doubt, steps will be taken to remedy the situation should it arise again. Perhaps the doors could be opened an hour earlier to alleviate some of the standing in line and the stampede.

Remember the old county tournament at the Circleville Athletic Club (Now Circle D Recreation Center)?
The lines used to extend both ways as far as Court St. to the west and past Pickaway St. to the east. People sat in the rafters to watch the games.
When the bleachers were filled, the fans sat on the floor. The longer the fans came the smaller the playing floor got. There was a lot of color, excitement and interest in the old county tournaments.
The TV sectional came as near matching that color and interest as any local tournament since the county events were discontinued.

In loving memory of Martha Mary (Stonerock) Lagore on this her forty-sixth birthday. We can not send a birthday. Your hand we can not touch. Today there will be no gifts and cake.
For the one we loved so much. For in a graveside softly sleeping. Where the flowers gently wave: Lies the one we loved so dearly. But whom we could not save. God alone knows how we miss her. As He counts the tears we shed. For He whispers "she is only sleeping."
Your love one is not dead." So on this, her birthday. For give us Lord, "we pray: But she was so precious. Why couldn't she have stayed." So sadly missed by Mother, Father, Husband Daughter, Son, and Sister Betty Sabine
